Colonel Joseph Battell, upon his death in 1915, bequeathed to Middlebury College 30,000 acres of forest land including Bread Loaf Inn. As Dr. Edward Collins of Middlebury says: "There is no other region like Bread Loaf in all the stretches of Vermont's hills and valleys. And nowhere else had a great heart like Colonel Battell's gathered up beloved mead and hillside slope, forest and mountain, silent lake and noisy brook, cascade and precipice, and given them to a corporation as a trust to insure that so long as wood grows and water runs it should be held inviolate against wanton destruction by men."

The School of English took its real shape when Dr. Collins, Director of the Summer Session; President Thomas; Dean de Visme of the French School, and one other person met on the sunny slope of the "Widow's Clearing" in front of Bread Loaf Inn during the summer of 1919. During this informal conference, it was decided that there was no place for the proposed English School on the Middlebury campus and that the Bread Loaf Inn in front of them was the ideal spot for such a project. Consequently, the college catalogue of 1919-20 contained the following announcement of the new English School: "This School is organized for teachers and students of the English Language and Literature, and offers instruction in the following divisions of work: technique of teaching, composition, literary criticism, and expression."

Professor Charles Baker Wright of the English Department at Middlebury was secured to act as Dean of the first session in 1920, with Professor Wilfred Davison also of the English Department at Middlebury as Assistant Dean for 1920 and as Dean in 1921 and until his death in the fall of 1929. A very able group of four college professors was secured to assist these two men the first year, and in the years to come, more professors of national reputation were added until, in 1929, there were seventeen instructors and five visiting lecturers. The School opened in 1920 with 49 students and grew steadily until in 1929 there were 116 students representing 18 states and 50 colleges. As Dean Davison said, the purpose of the Bread Loaf School is, "To have a school for teachers of English in which nothing but English should be taught, to have as instructors the best teachers who could be secured, and to have a school limited in numbers and so organized that students and teachers should have the advantage of intimate association, the genuine contact of mind with mind. . . . We believe in creative work because we believe that only so can the great literature of the past and the present truly come alive in the minds and hearts of teachers and students everywhere. And to have literature come alive, to have writing come alive, to have speaking come alive—that is our aim."

The Bread Loaf Writers Conference was an outgrowth of the School of English and was founded by John Farrar, formerly editor of THE BOOKMAN, in 1926. The purpose of the Conference has been to furnish opportunity for those learning to write professionally to receive honest criticism in an atmosphere of friendliness from a group of experienced writers, critics, and editors. The two weeks' program has consisted of background lectures on the writing of short stories, novels, and poems, with informal discussions on both the artistic and the practical problems of professional writing, and with particular attention to individual conferences on manuscripts brought by the students.

The Writers Conference is a smaller group than the School of English, having a group of six experienced writers, critics, and editors as professors and a group of five visiting lecturers of national reputation in the literary field. The student group is made up of members interested in writing as a profession or as a means to personal development.

Since the appointment in 1926 of Professor André Morize as Director of the French Summer School, the School has enjoyed unusual success. Increasing the student enrollment from 160 to 325 in three years, the Session of 1929 reached the maximum capacity in numbers, and new heights in quality of instruction. The French Summer School fills all the dormitories on the campus, except Hepburn Hall, with a considerable overflow into the Middlebury Inn, and private rooms in the village. Battell, Hillcrest, le Château, and Music Home dining rooms are crowded and extra tables are added. Classes are held even in the Playhouse, the basement of Pearsons, and the Château salons. The Middlebury undergraduate returning for a visit to the campus during the summer, has difficulty in recognizing his Alma Mater.

The fundamental rule of the summer organization is the rule of "No-English." The students pledge themselves to use only French during the entire seven weeks of the session, not only in classes and in the dormitories, but even during their walks about the village, picnics, and all conversations with other students. This rule, rigidly enforced and scrupulously observed, has brought it about that students speak more French during a summer here, than during a summer at a French university, according to the testimony of many. For seven weeks, the French campus becomes indeed "une petite France," with the American and French flags waving from the mast and upper window of Pearsons Hall.

No elementary courses in French are offered during the summer. No student is accepted who is not already able to make himself understood in French, and to follow advanced courses in the language and literature. Nearly 90 per cent of the students held the baccalaureate degree, and 95 per cent were teachers of French, students preparing to teach French, or otherwise professionally interested in the language. For this reason, the courses offered are primarily professional in their nature, intended either to improve the teacher's professional training, or to furnish him with more complete equipment for his class work. Nowhere in this country or in France can the teacher of French find intensive, concentrated, and purposeful training comparable to that offered at Middlebury. The ratio of instructors to students is kept high, 32 to 325 for the summer of 1929, or practically 1 to 10. The close contact of faculty and students thus insured is evident not only in the classrooms and dining rooms, but in the excursions and general social life as well.

The curriculum offered is divided into five groups—Language: Phonetics: Methods and Professional Training: Literature and Civilization: Conversation and Oral Practice. In each group a gradation and coordination of courses permits a profitable arrangement of work for each individual, under the personal advice of those in charge. Twenty-three Masters Degrees were awarded at the end of the session. Eighteen students were definitely working toward the Doctorate in Modern Languages, authorized by the trustees two years ago.

The evening program of the School included two popular lectures a week by the Visiting Professor from France, and two evenings a week of literary, dramatic or musical entertainment. A violinist and a cellist from the Boston Symphony Orchestra, a New York pianist of note, and a professional soloist, were members of the permanent staff of the school, giving auditions of chamber music of the highest quality. Every Sunday morning religious exercises in French were held in the Mead Chapel.

Students coming from as far away as California, Texas, Saskatchewan and Florida, return to their homes after a summer here among the Green Mountains, enthusiastically spreading the fame of Middlebury College and of the contribution which its French School is making to the profession of Modern Language Teaching.

With the idea of offering the American student of Spanish an opportunity to perfect his knowledge of the Castilian language and literature, the Spanish School of Middlebury College was founded in 1917. That it has fully succeeded in attaining the aims of its institution, is now a matter of history. In fact, the Spanish School takes pride in going over its record and finds an inspiration in the work and achievements of the last ten years.

The creation in the Spanish School of a real Spanish atmosphere and the development of a highly cultural and well-coordinated course of study are no doubt responsible for the enviable and already nation-wide reputation of the Middlebury Spanish School.

But there is another factor which has also greatly contributed to its success. It is the outstanding importance that has always been assigned to the relations of the faculty with the student body, and to the work of the instructor outside the class room. By establishing a direct personal contact between teachers and students, it has been possible to give to the latter such a type of assistance as required in each individual case, and every effort toward independent research has been encouraged.

At this time several students of the Spanish School, who are candidates for the degree of Doctor in Modern Languages, are in Spain collecting material for the writing of dissertations which will undoubtedly be valuable contributions to the study of Spanish letters; and the knowledge they have gained in Middlebury, not only of the Spanish language but also of the Spanish life and civilization, is making their work both more enjoyable and profitable.

It is a source of gratification for Middlebury College to realize that most of those who usually enroll in the Spanish Summer School are American teachers of High Schools and Colleges who come from all parts of the country to assimilate our educational methods and to obtain proficiency in their ability to talk, read and write Spanish. By giving them a good training, the Spanish School becomes instrumental in the endeavor to raise the standards of Modern Language teaching throughout the United States, thus lending a service of no little import.

Still of greater value, perhaps, is the understanding of Spanish and Spanish-American problems which the student of the Summer School gains through his acquaintance with the history and institutions of the Spanish speaking peoples. Besides the ordinary courses dealing with these subjects, prominent scholars from Spain have discussed in recent years the various sociological aspects of Spanish life, and this policy will certainly be continued in the future. As a matter of fact, it will be extended by engaging the services of distinguished scholars from Spanish America who will come to Middlebury in the capacity of Visiting Professors. In this way, the Spanish School will also contribute to a better knowledge among American students of the Spanish-American culture and ideals.

The Spanish Summer School of 1929 witnessed the largest enrollment since the year 1922. Twenty-six different states of the Union were represented and 89.6% of the students attending held college degrees.

At the end of the session nine received the degree of Master of Arts. This degree, honoris causa, was also conferred upon Señor Miguel de Zárraga, the well known Spanish playwright and journalist, in recognition of his distinguished services at the Middlebury Spanish School.

The School of Chemistry was organized as a special school of the summer session in 1920 for the purpose of offering "courses of particular value to premedical students, students and teachers of biology and teachers of chemistry." From the very first the school has attracted a considerable number of premedical students and teachers, both men and women, from other institutions. The work of the school has steadily expanded and at the present time all of the courses offered during the regular college year are given during the summer.

Early in the development of the school the policy of offering a full year's work in each course was adopted, so that, if a student wished to concentrate on any particular course, and do the same amount of work in it that he would do during the regular winter session, he could do so. In order to do this it was necessary to lengthen the session to seven weeks. For a time the Middlebury Chemistry School was the only one in the United States offering this opportunity for intensive work. Recently some other schools have adopted the same plan, notably the University of Pittsburgh. That this plan fills a certain academic need is shown by the fact that nearly all of the students of the School elect the intensive course.

While the school was not originally designed to be one for graduate students only, an increasingly larger number of candidates for a higher degree have attended each year. Forty per cent of the students in the school last year had already attained their baccalaureate degrees. The school makes it possible for students to diversify their programs of study during the college year and concentrate on science in the summer. This has been particularly the case with students at Middlebury.

The standards of scholarship have been maintained at a high level and the school has never been a refuge for those who have failed in regular courses. The aim of the school is quality of work rather than number of students. The courses offered are designed not only to give the student an appreciation of the breadth and application of the science, but also to develop ability in correct and independent thinking and to stimulate power of imagination.

Classes are held five days each week. The week-ends are left free for recreation which is so essential to success in such intensive study. At these times organized trips are taken to the famous Long Trail of the Green Mountain Club, to the Adirondacks, Lake Champlain, Lake George and other interesting places. During the late afternoons and early evenings many opportunities are afforded for swimming in Lake Dunmore or canoeing on Otter Creek. The staff of the school is always ready to take charge of or assist in planning these trips. Middlebury, located as it is in the middle of the beautiful Champlain Valley, in proximity to the Green Mountains and the Adirondacks, occupies a unique position among the summer schools of the country in its opportunities for combining real serious study with healthful recreation at a low cost.

There will be two changes in the instructing staff for the 1930 session. Dr. David E. Worrall, author of a well-known text on Organic Chemistry, will take the place of Dr. Charles F. Allen, who has been appointed to the staff of McGill university. Mr. Wallace M. Kelley, Middlebury '29, now an instructor at the University of Georgia, has been appointed in place of Mr. R. John Gettens, who plans to devote his entire time to the chemical investigations of the Art Museum at Harvard.

Juniors
Junior Class History

It is quite apt and appropriate that it is as Juniors we are writing our class history. We have reached that stage of the game where we can look back with wonder at the enormity of our past follies, look forward with dread at the worse ones to come, and be blissfully sure that for the present, at least, follies we have none. We have left behind that fit of extreme verdancy which characterized our Freshman year and put the mountains on our east to shame; we have outgrown that period when, as lusty lunged Sophomores, we apprised the world of our torturing growing pains; and haply, we are not yet Seniors, who feel constrained to tread on eggs lest they lose their dignity.

There are many things of which we, as a class, can boast, but overcome with modesty as we are, it will merely suffice to mention a few of those things which reflect the laud and honor due to our marvelous selves. We lived up to the tradition of Freshman classes of former years and after winning the football game from the Sophs on a muddy field, went on to assert our right to deprive ourselves of our pea-greens later on in the Spring. Then, in our Sophomore year, we broke all precedents by again winning in football, we being the first class to win both as Freshmen and Sophomores in the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

Socially, we put on a Frosh Frolic which those who attended will never forget, and a Soph Hop aided by Spirits which had the Dean worried for a time. And now we offer our latest and best exploit, The Kaleidoscope—we believe it to be in a class by itself and a fitting example of what 1931 is capable.
SAMUEL LEE ABBOTT
"Sam"
Ashland, Massachusetts
KΔP
Hingham High School
Student Council (1); Class Constitution Committee (1, 2); Campus Reporter (2); Humor Editor, 1931 KALEIDOSCOPE (3).
"Up! up! my friend, and quit your books, Or surely you'll grow double."
Sam originally entered with the class of 1930, but stayed out a year to help 1931 make up its Constitution. This Nordic is a literary scholar of no little ability—he spent a couple of years at Bread Loaf, and evidently absorbed an immense amount of knowledge. So much, in fact, that he easily obtained the job of making up the alphabet soup at Hepburn, and otherwise assisting in arranging the diet for the freshmen.

JAMES CALVIN AFFLECK
"Cal"
Wallingford, Connecticut
KΔP
Lyman Hall High School
College Band (1, 2), Manager (3); Freshman Cross Country Numerals; Track (1, 2); Interfraternity Basketball (1, 2, 3); Candidate for Assistant Manager, Basketball (2); Dance Orchestra (2, 3); Delta Tau; Junior Week Tea Committee.
"I'll steal a march on the Muses."
Cal has centered his attentions along musical lines, and now manages the college band and the college orchestra. Perhaps, therefore, it is no more than natural that the Music House seems to be quite an attraction, judging by the amount of time he spends there. Cal is one of those fellows who "works while he plays"—one has to on a trumpet. At other times he just works, mostly at taking care of a mean furnace.

"Bid me discourse, and I will enchant thy ear."
There once was a man from Brook-lyn,
That City of noise and of din.

Then went off to hide,
Oh forgive this poor man for his sin.

"Joyous are the busy."

"Hold that pose—say, that's the best yet. Now why couldn't you have done that on the first sitting?" Behold, we have none other than the Cameraman—no, not Buster Keaton, but one whose face is almost as sober, but which can be seen to smile (providing you can catch up with him) whenever he succeeds in snapping one of those long runs which so characterized our championship team. Al's collection of pictures around the campus would make a priceless album—and priceless they probably are to him.

"I'd be a butterfly, living a rover, Dying when fair things are fading away."
This rather handsome, imperious youth from beside the waters of Massachusetts Bay presented himself here for a college education. What happened? He wandered down past the Playhouse, looked in, and immediately became an actor; the Glee Club seemed to promise a good time, and we had a singer; the Library looked like a good field, so we had a student (occasionally); fair faces smiled—but by that time he was utterly lost. "Oh well," as Phil says, "there is education and education."

EDMUND COREY BRAY

Framingham High School
Freshman Football Squad; Cross Country Squad (3); French Club (3).
"His cogitative faculties immersed,
In conglomeration of cogitation."
Tearing himself away from his native haunts of Framingham, Ned made a beeline for Starr, where he amazed the rest of the college by making the Dean's list despite the pernicious influence of his environment. This year he transferred his abode to Painter, where we understand he is still amazing the frosh by his inexplicable ability to show the world what "Elementary Mathematical Finance" is all about. But, lest you think Ned a bookworm, let it be plainly understood that all of his activities are not confined to this side of the hill—Oh my, No!

"None but himself can be his parallel."

On a balmy September morn when we were still all green shoots, a loud buzzing was heard overhead, and down out of the sky dropped a giant New Jersey mosquito, engaged in a non-stop flight no one knows whither. Upon examining the phenomenon we found its buzz to be worse than its sting, for when it had recovered its breath it gave a sniff of approval and went off to get something to eat. A full belly worked wonders, and there reappeared a human being, whom we now know as Connie, the man who can get three laughs out of a joke.

"Defer no time; delays have dangerous ends."

Phil is a quiet, serious fellow who certainly has plenty of that rare ability to do difficult tasks in a thorough and finished manner. Happily, he has the saving grace of a sense of humor, and a very keen one at that—he laughs very readily, evidently under the impression that he who laughs last is considered the dumbest. Tears spring into our eyes whenever we see him toiling about the Campus to classes—tears of anguish at the thought that we can’t give the impression of being a good student and still live up to it the way he does.

"See the happy moron, he doesn't give a damn. I wish I were a moron—my God, perhaps I am."

After the Blue Baboon died last June from internal injuries resulting from a severe kick, the Deity had to turn his literary interests to some other field, and as a result we have had his famous (or should we say notorious*) book column in the Campus. Although he has lived in North Starr for two years now, we cannot see that Don is a radical unless you consider the reading of Mencken and Voltaire a step in that direction. (Maybe, who knows?)

We can't imagine anyone of Harry's size accomplishing any more in athletics than he has. He made his football letter during the past season and we expect him to hold down one of the forward berths on the basketball team. To see Harry running around the campus one would think that he didn't have a care in the world. He takes in a lot in his quiet, unassuming way that would get by most of us unnoticed.

"Believe a woman or an epitaph, Or any other thing that's false."

Cal, with a rich and varied background of experience already behind him, came to Middlebury looking for new worlds to conquer and easier courses to pass. He found new worlds and he found the courses he was looking for. To us, his life has been a success, but to him there is something lacking, namely longer and more frequent vacations. It is well known that Cal can make love in any language under the sun*—in fact, the girl doesn’t live who can’t speak his language.

Five summers spent in the National Bank of Keene have developed a good business head on Bob's shoulders, and we may always look to him for his good judgment in all things pertaining to Economics*. The Campus, Blue Baboon, and Saxonian have claimed his business interests, as he is an able manager and has proved his worth along these lines. The earnestness with which he undertakes all problems has led us to believe that he will make his mark in the business and banking world.

"What's all that noise?" Oh, that's only Ken Cox arguing with somebody. He will win too, because nature has endowed him with a naturally strong constitution. This ability to win is his great asset, and Ken has it in other lines as well as in forensic give and take. He has taken part in every cross country race for the past two seasons, and "placed" in each one. To judge by the large number of his friends, it can be easily seen that Ken has that happy faculty of getting along with everybody, even those who have the temerity to dispute him.

The individual whose physiognomy is spread above is one of that very healthy Massachusetts contingent. Burt looks equally well in a tux, in a roadster, in a golfing outfit, or indeed. He may be seen at all the college functions, and adds plenty of pep to the party. His managerial ability has found expression in his work on the Saxonian and Blue Baboon, and no doubt this ability will prove a great asset to him after he has left our midst for the field of banking.

"An exponent of the Greeks."
A red-blooded youth from Hebron who stands for those things which are fine and deep and clean. Walt's ability as a baseball and hockey player has made him a valuable asset to the college, and one of whom his classmates may be duly proud. A quiet sort of fellow, he is one of those who combine good looks with more than the average amount of gray matter—a combination resulting in one of the most sincerely liked men in the class.

HIRAM MAXIM CROMMETT

"And e'en his failings leaned to virtue's side."
Crommett is a portion of the Maine fauna which has been transferred to the comparatively civilized Vermont tundra. Despite his attempts to camouflage his inherent down-east twang, Hiram gives himself dead away each time he opens his mouth. However, we would not part with him, for a mixture of Yankee twang and Georgia drawl make an interesting contrast when raised (as they often are) in an altercation regarding "ha'h ta'iff" or "ekonawmics."

Just another Rutland boy out to make good, and after watching him through his first two years we can rest assured of his versatility. His main trouble seems to be in finding courses which are hard enough for him*, as he seems to find his way down to Weybridge House fairly regularly. Charlie also shines as a warbler, and adds plenty of "volume" to Prof. Owen's exponents of the choral art.

When in a fit of abstraction we run across Paul, we find him either playing a fast game of tennis, pummelling a handball, or applying his powers in solving the subtleties of Economics. Due to the efforts of our excellent professors on the subject we may some day see Paul one of the managers of Big Business or engaged in the ever popular and immensely lucrative practice of shearing the sheep on Wall Street. Wolves are supposed to parade under a smooth and polished exterior anyway, and Paul just fills the part.

Duff has gained recognition by his ability displayed on the gridiron down at Porter Field as well as on the ring of cinders which surrounds it. Duff, like all good athletes, by a not very great effort has eluded Phi Beta Kappa, but he hasn't been so fortunate when it comes to co-eds. It was rumored that Duff was dumb, so he took a Public Speaking course to show that the aspersion was groundless. Although circumstances have sometimes not always appeared any too favorable to this sturdy son of Shoreham, he has never lost his good humor.

"Music hath its charm—"
"Think of Dick—think of Al Jolson." Rather apt, too, when you consider that Dick's voice has won him a prominent place in musical circles in Middlebury, whether it's an informal at the D.U. House, a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, or his chief love, the Glee club. More mundane, perhaps, but no less complimentary to Dick's ability, is the fact that he has taken under his wing this last named organization as manager, and which indicates a successful season next year. His ready stories and potent line only add to the repertoire of this believer in versatility.

To a certain extent he likes books—at least we see him over in the Library more often than not, though how he manages to keep those reserve books in order and on tap is a mystery to us. Cid also plays a nice game of tennis, and in fact any Beta Psi team playing without him lacks its biggest punch.

There are unkind souls who claim that Bill's silence is due to the fact that he has nothing to say, but the truth of the matter is that Bill is a man with a grievance against mankind. It seems that quite a long time ago (Bill's freshman year) some of the old meanies in Starr threw him out into the wide open spaces disguised as Lady Godiva, so now Bill comes around every night and just as the boys are getting to sleep wakes them up by making a noise like a Salvation Army Santa Claus, ostensibly purveying food. The whistle blew, the brakes screeched, and there descended amidst a loud silence the lone birdman from the Long Island airports. But like our feathered friends, his stay here was short, for in the spring of his second season the call of the South and the swish of the old Raritan lured him away. But you all know the story of the proverbial penny, and the rule which takes an exception to prove it, for back he came to roost,—even a bird must rest its weary wings at last. "Ever carefree, always gay."

"This is Ken Simpson and his Black Panthers serenading you from the S. S. President Harding." Hit it, Ken.

Ken came here bearing in his hands a couple of little sticks of wood which he applied without delay to some pieces of taut goatskin in a fashion so miraculous and irresistible that his audiences were held open mouthed. Ever since he has drummed his way into every function worth taking in around here as well as drumming himself to Europe a couple of times last summer, making Middlebury a by-word in all the courts of Europe.

BK
Hampton High School
Glee Club (1, 2, 3); Choir (2, 3); Alchemist's Club (2, 3); Candidate for Assistant Manager, Cross Country (2), Assistant Manager (5); Cheer Leader (1).

"He was born with a gift of laughter And a sense that the world was mad."

Hal came to us, "up from the South at break of day," reeking of mint juleps and with an ambition to introduce a new step native to Virginia, and which he has since made famous. He forthwith drawled himself into the Glee Club, in spite of the fact that he never sang a Mammy song in his life. Like so many seemingly slow moving individuals he conceals a gift of great activity under such an exterior, and proved it by being chosen to select another winning schedule for the cross country team next season.

"Behavior is a mirror in which everyone shows his image."

Another habitué of the white house behind the Library is this handsome young man who hails from Witherbee, New York, whence sprang the Adirondacks. Jerry has done great things for Midd on the track in the past, and despite the fact that he had to take time out last year for an operation, we look to see him gain new laurels for his alma mater in the future.

"Gabriel, blow your horn!"

When Bob came up here from little old New York he had two ambitions. One was to get plenty of sleep—the other was to become a musician. This first was nipped in the bud the first week when he was aroused from his dreams of Paul Whiteman and led along to the rain party. His nature was so unbalanced by the episode that he suffered from insomnia the remainder of the year. But musically, his life has been a success—Bob and his trumpet have become well known.
PHILIP CARL TUCKER

"Unto the pure all things are pure."

We had always pictured an alchemist as a bearded old sage who read dry books and mixed horribly smelling substances with tragic results. Phil claims to be an alchemist, but he is neither old nor bearded nor a reader of stupid books. In fact, his chemical experiments are so accurately accomplished, in so little time, that even the professors are amazed at his genius. Perhaps it is his ability in the lab which helps him prepare such amazing concoctions at the Dog-Cart in such short time. Truly "such popularity must be deserved."

"Alone, alone, all, all alone, Alone on a wide, wide sea."

Ever since his Freshman year, Tup has been a loyal member of the Social Lions, and we are told that he has never missed a chance to attend a social function. One exception to this must be noted, however. Ever since he successfully tried out for basketball manager last year and had to scrub the gym floor once or twice a week, he has had a religious horror of the place, and not even the coaxing announcements read in Chapel can induce him to attend any informals there, regardless of where the crowd goes.

"His conduct still right, though his argument wrong."

There is more than one way in which Cal resembles that other famous Vermonter of the same nick-name. For one thing he is the busiest person we know. If anyone wants anything done he always goes to Cal, who finds time to help out in spite of his work at the Playhouse and on the Kaleid, and a schedule of the hardest courses the college offers.

"There's a sweet little cherub that sits up aloft And keeps watch for the life of poor Jack."

Here is another of that delegation which emigrated from the Nutmeg State to come to the land of granite, where men are men and women are still after them. From here Jack went West last summer, where he carried on the lucrative business of selling gold bricks to the natives, and whence he returned with a fur coat, though of what species it is uncertain. But now he has returned, and although he will be out one crate of sister pins, the broken hearts he left behind him will mend, and the country restored to normalcy once more.

"Cogito, ergo sum."
We know very little about Baldy since he left South Painter, as he has hibernated to the top floor of South Starr. However, we have learned from his roommates, both ex- and present, that Baldy has become an omnivorous reader, digesting everything from the Rutland Herald and Cosmopolitan to the works of the immortal Boccaccio. Aside from his reading Baldy is also addicted to Chemistry and photography, two of the least of the seven deadly sins.

"A modest, unassuming youth."
Occasionally we find in our midst a man who moves with the quiet assurance of a person who thinks that he knows what life is really all about, but rarely do we find one whom we think really does. Webbie has disproved the old belief that a student is a weak little bookworm and can never be an athlete by doing both. With a great interest in football and a berth on the managerial staff of the baseball team he is sure to get somewhere, in a literal as well as a figurative sense.

"The noblest mind the best contentment has."
Weeks is one of the few men in the class of '31 who we believe actually has a conscience. Now we claim that a conscience is a highly deplorable feature of modern life—especially when there's a good cinema at Murray's Emporium the night before a pre-announced in math—but, after noting Weeksey's accomplishments in the lines of scholastic endeavors we're beginning to wonder if by some strange chance we may not be wrong after all. Who knows?

"Bashfulness is an ornament to youth, but a reproach to old age."
They call Fred the "Little Giant," and that is no joke. He has played the part of David in the David and Goliath story so often, especially on the basketball court, that the name has stuck. Fred wandered into this neck of the woods while on a baboon hunting expedition, but found, instead, an organization here after his own heart, namely "The Emulsified and Mysoginistical Order of Woman-Haters." In fact, he gave the club its motto, which is "Why spend money on women when you can get 4% on it in any bank?"

Upon Pat's shoulders has fallen the very responsible position of keeping the world informed of the progress of Middlebury. By progress is meant athletic progress, so as Publicity Director, Pat follows the teams around, writes voluminous essays on each game, sends them to the metropolitan dailies where by some curious process they are condensed, and lo and behold the next day our alumni read all about the vicissitudes of the Black Panther.

"Music hath charms."

Have you ever passed the Music Studio and wondered whence came the strains of a hidden violin? It was probably our Betty at one of her favorite pastimes. It seems things musical take much of her time and attention, for we find her name in the ranks of the choir and the orchestra. Besides she lent her soprano voice to the enterprising cast of the "Pirates of Penzance" sophomore year. Betty reaches a high A in a cheerful disposition and a readiness of sympathy too.

SIKRI MATILDA AHO

Black River Academy

Hiking Club (1, 2, 3); French Club (1, 2); Health Club (1); Biology Club (2); Class Volley Ball (1); Class Baseball (1, 2); Dramatic Club (3); House Chairman (3).

"Her ways are ways of pleasantness, And all her paths are peace."

Would you dance, would you play tennis, would you have a party and lots of fun, would you learn of bacteria and all the other mysterious denizens of the microscopic world?—for these, each and everyone, look up Sikri. You will find she knows the Alpha and Omega of them all. We have seen her ability in the gym since freshman year, and it’s a tribute to her dependability that she holds that dignified position of house chairman, this, her first year "on the hill."

North High School

Dramatic Club (1, 2, 3); Dean's List (1); 1931 Constitution Committee; Class Hockey (2, 3); Class Baseball (2); Y. W. C. A. (3); Class Volley Ball (3).

"Good nature and good sense are her companions."

Ruth's pertinent remark on the above would probably be "Oh, Yes, Yes!" with a bit of a sarcastic drawl in her voice—just enough to make you wonder whether to believe your ears or not. But knowing her modesty you will laugh with her and think silently of her skill on the hockey field and her share in whatever good fun is afoot in the dormitory. There will be a slump in the paper industry if Ruth ever slows down on that correspondence which has held her time and attention since Freshman year.

Caroline Balmer
"Carol"
Evanston, Illinois

Roycemore High School

Dramatic Club (1, 2); French Club (1, 2); Campus Tryout (1), Reporter (1), Assistant Editor (2); English Club (2).

"Inland I stood...and saw the coast of France!"

Caroline is the fortunate member of our class who can successfully combine study abroad with her Middlebury career. We wonder, however, if she doesn't miss the informal gatherings of the Château élite—when refreshments ranged from dry toast to pâté de foie gras and the conversation from French to (must we break down and confess!) English. But lively indeed will be the group when Carol returns, to keep us wide-eyed with tales of the Sorbonne and Montparnasse.
LILLIAN HELENA BECKER

"Efficiency is the test of knowledge."

Freshman year, soon after marveling that one of us could actually assist in maintaining order in the library, we learned that Becky's dignity and efficiency extend to more than one field. Her ability is shown at the Playhouse, on stage and off. She is indispensable on the hockey field, and a cooperative unit in language clubs and still other organizations. And who else could tackle tough courses with Becky's avid interest!

RUTH EMILY BARNARD

"Give the world the best that you have, and the best will come back to you."

Banrie doesn't seem to be over-concerned with her rise among the erudite. First she neglected to tell the editor* of her attainment to the Dean's List sophomore year, and then there was English Club to add. Just ask at the Campus office if they ever see Banrie! But count on Banrie for a hand of bridge or an active part in any fun afoot, unless she's preparing to startle the world on a French Lit. quiz.

"Sport that wrinkled care derides, And laughter holding both his sides!"
Ginny has certainly entered into college life with enthusiasm and pep. We cannot be down-hearted when she is around. Ginny doesn’t spend all her time looking at Vogue and Harpers Bazaar. Many an afternoon will find her swinging a tennis racquet, wielding a hockey stick or blowing the referee’s whistle. Don’t think for a minute that she doesn’t have her serious moments, but we like them too, who could help it?

"Happy am I; from care I’m free."
Did you ever see Lucy when she didn’t have a smile for you? No! But though she is always ready for fun, she has her serious moments. Back and forth to classes we see her during the week, and can hardly realize that she finds time to make a striking outfit for herself in her spare moments. Then week-ends find her among the social lights of both sides of the hill wherever the best of good times may be had. But withal, Lucy finds time to go home when demands on her time are not too insistent.
Mary Frasier Bump

"Bumpy"

New York City

Brandon (Vt.) High School

Dramatic Club (1, 2, 3); Spanish Club (2, 3); Class Hockey (1); Class Volley Ball (2).

"Come and trip it as you go
On the light fantastic toe."

Even before Mary left Brandon for "the sidewalks of New York" she was well known for "tripping the light fantastic." Interpretive or ballroom dancing—Mary can teach us all a lesson in rhythm and grace.

Mary may have a little red in her hair, but contrary to the old belief, there are no evidences of an accompanying temper. You can't even make her angry; her disposition is one of the best. "Bumpy" is always cheerful and ready for a good time. Whether it be volley-ball, basketball, or skating, she may be found among the enthusiasts.

"She loves life at its fullest,
Lives life at its deepest and best."

"Hey, kids, listen—!" Then the fun begins, for where there's life there's Betty and while she's around there's something doing. Much to the envy of all of us however, she seems to get everything done and yet have plenty of time to uphold the honor of the class in volleyball and baseball. Her spare moments find her sketching fascinating silhouettes and painting dainty cards.
Dale Thelma Carpenter
Barton, Vermont

Dramatic Club (1, 3); Y. W. C. A. (1, 2, 3); Rural Discussion Group (1); Pyramid Club (1, 2, 3).
"Not in rewards, but in the strength to strive,
the blessing lies."
Quiet as a mouse, but oh what fun!
A twinkle in her eye and a mysterious little smile are the only inklings that Dale had a hand in all the strange things that happened at Wilcox House freshman year. Mysterious noises, unruly alarm clocks, spooks—who would ever suspect her of taking part in such pranks? But Dale is a very conscientious little worker, and we must not forget that she can study, too, more persistently than most of us.

Keen for fun and pleasure bent
Yet Poky is her sobriquet.
Cooking they say is her major;
Homestead has claimed much of her time.
After hours only, we wager;
Spanish is where she shines, but
E's for the end of this rhyme.
THETA FRANCIS CONANT
"Theet"
Woburn, Massachusetts

Woburn High School
Dramatic Club (1, 2, 3); Class Baseball (2).

"A true friend is forever a friend."
Theet has quite a penchant for horseback riding—watch for a trim figure in green on the pleasant days of fall and spring. She's a fiend for hiking, too, we hear—one would be inclined to think there's something in it. You say she's quiet? You don't know her awfully well? It's probably partly your own fault, but it seems that elements from the south side of the hill got a better start in knowing Theta very well, right from the beginning, and there is still a considerable drain on her time.

VIRGINIA COLE

Cabinet (2, 3); Choir (3); Women's Glee Club (3); Pan-Hellenic Council (3); House Chairman (3), Representative to Student Government Council, Head of Archery (3); German Club (3); All-Midd Volley Ball (3); Junior Prom Committee.

"I will look at cliffs and clouds with quiet eyes."
Ginny has always been one of those quiet, rather dignified young people, who at the same time are full of fun, extremely interested in everything, and capable besides. Witness the variety of her activities!
MADELEINE WADE COTE
Campello, Massachusetts
Brockton High School
Dramatic Club (1, 2, 3); Y. W. C. A. (1, 2, 3); Pyramid Club (1, 2, 3); Biology Club (2).

"Now, here's a busy young woman."
Madeleine is just another one who started right by living at Wilcox House her freshman year. The industry that she displayed there has not been lessened to any degree even by the less studious atmosphere of Hillcrest. She is another member of the class of '31 who has fallen under the spell of the mysteries of the bug lab. Not only does she do a splendid job of mounting Longie's butterflies, but makes drawings of the bug lab playthings. Also, she turns her hand to more humorous and amusing sketches, with which she covers the innumerable blotches that appear on dormitory walls.

EDNA BAKER COTTLE

"In whom beauty, wit, and pleasure were one."
Eddie is very busy this year dividing her time between absorbing a Château accent and dashing thrice a day to Bat Cot to juggle trays. Fortunately, clubs, boards, and what-not have not suffered, for her interest is as lively as ever.

Ed's voice and manner are equally charming. Clever with a needle, active in campus affairs, graceful on the dance floor—what more could one look for?
HARRIETT MARIE DORMAN
Worcester, Massachusetts
South High School
Dramatic Club (1, 2, 3); French Club (1, 2, 3); Y. W. C. A. Book Committee (1); Class Hockey (1); Dean's List (1, 2); German Club (3).
"She mixed reason with pleasure
And wisdom with mirth."

What would Middlebury do without its yearly supply of recruits from Worcester? Among them comes Harriett and again the famous city has surpassed itself. She has some remarkably fine habits, such as making the Dean's list and indulging in a peculiar kind of merriment known as silent laughter—one form of adaptation to class room environment, we might say. She has also on occasion exhibited certain mechanical talents with a nail file and a hair pin as her chief tools. Oh yes, her French spoken à la Parisienne is the eternal despair of other aspirants to perfection in la belle langue.

ELIZABETH JEWETT CURRIER
“Betsy”
Worcester, Massachusetts
North High School
Dramatic Club (1, 2, 3); Y. W. C. A. (1, 2, 3); Social Committee (3); Class Volley Ball (2, 3).
“And looks on life with quiet eyes.”

Betsy is another of those people who love their studies. She is very devoted to her books and you may not be able to prevail upon her to leave them, even for the short space of one evening, for she is more than likely to hesitate conscientiously and beg off to do her work. If she goes along with you, however, you will be sure of having a good time. The same old saying about “still waters” holds true with “Betsy,” for to those of us who know her, she is full of wit and humor, and is a true friend.

"An unextinguished laughter shakes the skies."
A joke, a giggle, a flash of gold,—that's Fluffy. A mite of a star on the baseball diamond and an aspiring member of the orchestra. Did you see "The Valiant?" Her frequent appearances at the Playhouse show this little lady's ability to cope with some of the more difficult dramatic roles the Middlebury stage has offered. Ambitiously setting about parlez-ing, Fluffy is one of the prominent Château-ites—or lights—this year, and her laugh rings down its corridors with a bit of an echo of chimes.

HARRIET WYLLYS ELIOT

"I have a little shadow
That goes in and out with me."
If the truth be revealed "Shad" is not to be found when or where expected. Hers are characteristics of the shadow she is named for. Now you see her, now you don't. "Dash it all anyway!"—you know the rest. A friendly, earnest girl; an athlete, too, known to play basketball with several layers of blisters on her feet at one time. She has even introduced gymnastics into the dormitory—rather a disconcerting pastime to the parties above and below!
EMMA FRANCES EVERETT "Fran"
Montpelier, Vermont
ΣΚ
Montpelier High School

"If you have friends in adversity, stand by them."

A loyal friend is "Fran," who is ever ready to help anyone in trouble. Can she scare those blues away? Indeed she can, and we shall miss her cheery sympathy. Imagine a great math student, a regular bridge player, one who is very, very fond of good feeds, one who can appreciate a joke—and here you will find the very person herself. Now that Fran is before you, you will find it very easy to know her. Perhaps you will even make bold enough to ask who draws the clever sketches adorning her room—and she will answer you by pointing to a certain photograph on her dresser.

French Club (1, 2, 3); Y. W. C. A. Book Committee (1); House Chairman (1); Class Basketball (2); Class Volley Ball (2); Dramatic Club (2, 3); German Club (3).
"La vie est brieve, un peu d’amour, un peu de de rève, et puis—"

Do not let the apparent seriousness of Mary’s picture be misleading. We hear she positively refused to let the photographer snap her usual smile. Whether in class or out she is always ready to give a cheery word or lend a helping hand to anyone in need, whether it be in French or History, or in the art of making fudge. After college days, when we go to France—and Belgium, we are going to look for Mary there, for, if Château life is any indication, that is her goal.

"Zounds, a woman of mystery come among us!"

Ellie was quite a problem for our photographer. He couldn’t seem to realize that she just can’t grin and open her eyes at the same time! But he caught her familiar slow smile and twinkle which we have seen so often on both sides of the hill. The social is but one aspect of Ellie’s nature; witness the athletic, on hockey and baseball fields—or the business, in the intricacies of the Campus office interior. Her moods are even more varied, and we think she has a green one for evenings!

"When and where was there ever such a roguish, bright-eyed, enticing, maddening little puss in all this world?"

If you think that beauty and brains just don’t go together, meet this little blond who amazes even her professors with her choice of high-priced words. Difficult assignments accomplished in no time at all; a clever hand in costuming; a good partner at bridge; a wide range of activities—it’s an enviable record, indeed! Somewhere Marje was dubbed “Small” Frye, but the name certainly does not describe her position in the ranks of ’31!
Geraldine George Griffin

"Hang sorrow, care would kill a cat; So therefore let's be merry!"

And you may rely on Audria to be the "merriest of the merry"—when it's a question of fun, frolic, or food. But bring on a grave situation such as the advent of a Y. W. bazaar or a hockey match or a basketball game, and Audria may surprise you with her earnestness. But perhaps you had already noticed her sincerity in everything she does? Then you know her. An all-round good sport.—That's Audria.

"She hath a queenly bearing
And a clever set of wits."

Tall and poised, Al seems unapproachable. However, she chooses her friends thoughtfully, and is the more appreciated by those who learn to know her well and with whom she comes in closest contact. Dependable in all she does, whether it is taking able charge of an entertainment for you or merely completing her assignments day by day. In sports she's there in every play. Yet at all times Al is ready for fun and laughter!

"Eat, drink and be merry—"

We'd like to find the person in college who doesn't know "Hassie"—to say nothing of someone "Hassie" doesn't know. A quick smile and a twinkle of her eyes is her ready greeting to all, whether in "Joe's" or on campus. And have you watched her on the tennis courts! No wonder she puts things over with a bang—why it's force of habit! Carrying the same measure of pep and enthusiasm into everything she does, whether it's making the old ivories talk or dancing a mean drag, "Hassie" finds this giddy globe worth the stop-over.

"Life is not life at all

Bewitching odors wafted from the most particular, a happy, cheering laugh, and we see Bobs appear on the threshold.

But this is not the only kingdom over which she can reign supreme, for somewhere, not so far away, she’s queen of another realm!
Bobs gives the impression of happiness and a carefree spirit as she goes about campus. Friendly and attentive to studies as well, Bobs is an all-around girl who puts a lot into life and finds joy in everything.

Some people can always find things to do and enjoy doing them. "Hoadle" roams the country-side studying rock formations, haunts the biology lab dissecting dogfish and in between times cuts out and puts together good-looking clothes. That's what we call covering many fields—and we don't mean those the geology class tramps through or picnics in either. And does she work all the time? Not by any means. Did you ever see her when she wasn't ready to play a joke or help you out of a scrape?

Just as long as this Grade A Quality clever,—

Dottie's interests are broad indeed.
She takes an enthusiastic part on commit-

"Melancholy, melancholy! I've no use for you, by golly."

When it comes to chasing the blues away, there's no one like Pud. Her vivacity and pep simply make one good-natured. But all is not levity with her, for we have no more industrious a student among us. Yet seeing her in the class room, on campus, at the Playhouse, or on the dance floor, we have often wondered how Pud combines qualities so varied into one personality. But she does—successfully, at that—and has time to be "marshal-led" about to no end of social events.

Dot's is an adventurous spirit, whether it be in the realm of ideas or actuality. The creative ability we all aspire to is hers in quite some measure. You may judge by the example a page or so ahead, where the editor has acknowledged her effort with her initials. Dot brings a musician's appreciation to her work, and relentlessly pursues the finest in all she does. A large capacity for fun and good fellowship make Dot a happy addition to any group.

"She loves it all—her work, her play."

The weight of Ellen's activities makes quite an impression on Midd and '31. Her grades are higher than the highest (if you can get her to admit it!). Yet her mind, far from being overworked, turns to assimilating tome after tome to use in debating briefs. Her position on the Kaleid deserves all the praising adjectives we had resolved not to print.

To the uninitiated Bobbie may seem quiet, but one little glimpse of her eyes gives her away. She is a good sport, always on hand when needed, always willing to help out. And with it all is this mixture of a fun-loving and a serious nature. Bobbie is a clever hand at drawing. We wonder if she isn't ambitious to sail the seven seas in one of those dream boats she sketches. Just ask her sometime where her thoughts are when her eyes lose a little of their sparkle for a happy, far away look!

"None named her but to praise."
The shortening of the last syllable of Helen's name spelt "Legit," was not intended to describe the way she must hustle to accomplish all her responsibilities. For we envy the way Legit does things, without apparent effort, in the same smooth way she dances or shoots a basket.
Everyone knows Legit, jolly and peppy — yet thorough-going and dependable.

Nat's French echoes and reechoes down the halls of the Château. Her vocabulary — right or wrong — will stretch over another five minutes after the rest of us are gasping for breath. She is right in the middle of all the good times — playing bridge (yes, even with tables and refreshments), or dancing (on either side of the hill). You may see her on the skating rink night after night during the cold months, her coat flapping in the wind, or in the gym playing basketball or volley ball; you just can’t miss her!

"To set the cause above renown,
To love the game above the prize."

Mac startled us all, as far back as freshman year by making All-Midd Teams. To us, such an honor means quality, and we have found the same worth in everything Mac has done in college. If there had been less room the editor would have been satisfied to characterize merely thus: McNulty, All-Midd!

Did you ever hear Punk tell a personal experience?—to "listen in" is to laugh. We have found Punk a wonderful sport in whatever comes up. Our first memories of her are concerned with persistence in class athletics and in freshman math,—and she's still going strong in both. Oh, a thousand times pardon! We don't mean in freshman math but now rather in the higher branches of that subject, for she is a wizard at figures indeed. With the same efficiency that helps her in math, she will solve the problem of life!

Somewhere we gathered the impression that Gwen's is a "dancing" personality. We weren't quite willing to deny it by not printing it, so we'll tell you. For proof look for her dancing feet on the tennis court, in "interpretive," or at informals.
Gwen, however, has an appropriate mood. Staying up until four, or making fudge in the wee small hours of the a.m. won't daunt her. Start a weighty discussion on Shakespeare and she's right with you there, too.

"I would make songs for thee."
1931 had to have some outstanding contribution to the literary life of Midd, and Lib has done more than her share. Though only a junior, she has steered the Saxonian through several issues, besides at one time or another filling innumerable of its pages with song and story. It is for this we see her stroll off alone with her note-book;—for this we see tacked on her door a sign reading "Don't disturb! Genius is burning!" But her drollery, wit, and cleverness make the companionship of her free moments constantly in demand.

"It takes Life to love life."

Betty came to Midd as one of the most enthusiastic of freshmen. Her vivacity and pep soon led her into the midst of the social swim. In spite of her hedonistic pursuits, she has attained a scholastic record that makes the rest of us gasp.

Her activities however do not stop even with the social and the erudite. Her ability has been proven on the Playhouse stage, the volley-ball floor, and the skating rink. The manner in which she enters into these various activities proves to us that she finds the world a very interesting place to live in.

"She liked whatever she looked upon; Her looks went everywhere."

We see Mori's dark, wind-blown hair and lively blue eyes wherever something goes on about campus. She leaves the rest of us would-be over-burdened mortals wondering how she keeps so far ahead of the game scholastically. She does, however, have time and energy for a turn on the basketball court or a whirl on the dance-floor. Mori enjoys everything she takes part in—which is much!—here in college, but that doesn't make her less eager for vacations and all they bring.

active consciences in the Junior class!
But once she believes it is her duty to relax and enjoy herself, don't we all have fun! Her sophomore year established a reputation for accurate replies to all tele-

"Your words were windows large enough for moonlight."

We always sit up and listen when we hear Jilda’s voice, not only because of its fascinating throaty tone, but because she is not one to dawdle with words. A spirited—and always interesting—conversation flows smoothly in good French or better English, and we are astounded at how well-versed she is in all subjects. We know Jilda from the Saxonian’s pages, from hearing her debate, from being in classes with her—but best of all from talking with her. Intriguing, individual, exotic: these words belong to Jilda.

Here is 31’s half-pint comedienne! Have Henny show you “What a dance do they do!”—etc., with illustrations. For does she dance? and sing? and make her audience laugh?—Oh my! Just let the strains of catchy rhythmic melody reach her ears and we hear a “Hey, hey!” and Olie is doing her stuff again. If she goes after fame as peppily as she goes about in college, the class of 1931 will have someone to be proud of in its ranks.

"Who keeps one end in view makes all things serve."

Here's another young person out after high "A's." If not so easily attainable in courses, they have a charm for Betty in choir and Glee Club. But her determined industry makes us wonder if she isn't interested also in the scholastic kind. If one is a music enthusiast, one is sure to have seen Betty a good deal, for her talents and hobbies lie in that line. But—whether or not—just be present at the good times around the dorm and you'll find Betty there enjoying them, too.

Florence is quiet but her presence is always felt. We don't need to point out as an example the regal air with which she presides over the hash-slingers or tray-jugglers or what-have-you at the Château! Whatever she sets out to do we know she will accomplish, for not only is she conscientious but clever as well. If you listen carefully when you hear Florence's well-modulated voice, you will find that she has a real sense of humor, a wealth of fundamental knowledge, and an appreciation of all that is fine.

On the athletic field, in the playhouse, or on the dance floor we cannot miss "Simmie's" keen sense of humour. She is witty and clever as all who know her will testify. Besides she is one of those young people whom you will remember for having very decided opinions—whether it be in the Campus office or just at a 'hash' party. In her more serious moments we realize her artistic ability which she frequently displays in her love of writing and sketching.

"A mutual understanding is ever the firnest chain."
"Oh S-l-u-c-e!" And then down the corridor floats a voice, 'I'll be there in a minute.' That's Lucy—at least a few minutes late, but she maintains she must live up to the reputation she has established. Last year Lucy had a wonderful time teaching the frogs in the bug lab to sing—just ask her how well they harmonized on '49 bottles hanging on the wall.' Sluce boasts one of the most original vocabularies in college—she is always surprising us with some new word but which fits the situation perfectly.
Grace Genevieve Smith

"They also serve who only stand and wait."
Of course the quotation could apply to all hash-slingers, but we are thinking in particular of Grace's part in the fun and frolic at Bread Loaf last summer. There, in a vacation spirit, we confirmed very easily how keen a sense of humour is hers and how lively is her enjoyment of what goes on about her. Grace has a quiet enthusiasm, and the persistency that puts things across while the rest of us are still talking about it. She has a willing ear for the troubles of others, and the ready solution for a problem.

"We love characters in proportion as they are impulsive and spontaneous."
And Emerson leaves us a large margin in the case of Stolt. Who knows what she will be up to from one minute to the next? Now the Mary of rhyme, intent on creation—again the minx of mischief intent on destruction. But you never know which mood will take her, for Stolt seems able to adapt herself to as many roles off-stage as on. Look for Stolt on the courts, the rink, the dance floor, or wherever vivacity and good company are wanted.

Auburn-tinged hair and eyes, two big dimples, and a friendly smile. This young lady's greatest burden is the pronunciation of the name by which she is generally known on the North side of the hill. Tollés, with a certain little Spanish twist of the es is the accepted one. A conscientious worker with time to sketch a whimsical bit of modern life, to cross campus to a house-party, or to join the dormitory escapades. Regardless of curly hair and dimples, Tollés plans to acquire, or rather retain, sufficient dignity to initiate sweet school girls into the gentle arts of sewing and cooking.

"Sweet and stately with all the grace of womanhood."

The gods looked with favor on the class of '31 when they joined Irene to our numbers for her junior year. Irene gave up her abode in Aerial Alley of the famous Weybridge Castle to join the would-be françaises of the beau Château. There we find her eagerly digging up information on why was Pascal—and if—where was Louis XIV and how!

But we think of Irene as dignified, for steadfastness of purpose is not lacking in her firm chin and level gaze. Ever gracious, ever entertaining, we like Irene because—well, we just like her.

Ev's tiny spike-heeled shoes click along the walks of campus to the tune of her scintillating vivacity. Blonde and petite with a whimsical little nose, Ev was undaunted by two years at the Château. Even ped courses haven't dulled her sense of humor. It flashes surprisingly often—and then suddenly she is serious. In her seriousness there is an adequacy which seems to put her in a world intangible to us. It is in this world—"about nothing! or about everything"—that makes one want to know her.

Fair-haired, blue-eyed "Linny." Diligent and conscientious are big words, but they certainly describe "Linny." She thrives on responsibilities of all sorts. She is in great demand at the Playhouse where she divides her time between backstage and behind the footlights. Or we run across her downtown inquiring the price of meat, and buying an egg here and a lemon there, for the culinary requirements of the Homestead. Cooking is her forte—and what is it they say about "the road to a man's heart?"
ESTHER MARION WARD
Greenfield, Massachusetts
Greenfield High School
Dramatic Club (1, 2, 3); Hiking Club (1); French Club (1, 2); Pyramid Club (1, 2, 3).
"Friend to truth! of soul sincere,
In action faithful, and in honor clear."
Whether it's a question of going to a movie, taking a hike out West Road, playing a game of tennis, or just sitting down for a friendly chat, Esther is always willing and ready to join you. She may be seen time and time again studying earnestly in the library; so we know where her interests lie and how steadfastly she pursues them. Full of fun, and yet at times quietly reserved and serious, we wish we could know her better. We are sure, however, that one would have to search long for a more loyal or more sympathetic friend.

"A Queen can take a Jack!"
Gret came to Middlebury thinking she would stay with us only one year. We are glad she changed her mind, for one look at her sparkling blue eyes and golden hair is enough to capture everyone. However it's not so easy to be captured by Gret. We confess we begrudge somewhat, that we must sacrifice much of Gret's time, for she has chosen her major activity on the other side of the hill.
Ruth Bean Wills

ÆΔ
Woburn High School
Dramatic Club (1, 2, 3); Hiking Club (2); German Club (3).
"Oh I came to college
For to gain some knowledge
Singing of my Home Ec. all the day."

Yes, Ruth came to college, and the knowledge is coming to her—but don’t let us deceive you, for she hasn’t limited her interest to Home Ec. Languages occupy a good share of Ruth’s time with her books. She has kept up a steady pursuit of Latin and French undaunted by hours demanded by the domestic laboratory.
Winter time has seen Ruth on the rink many an evening, and we even know of occasions on the toboggan slide! True to the name of Wills we find her every fall and spring on the tennis-courts, and understand that she plays a very good game.

"Good things come in small packages."

We have watched Kay come up to classes day after day these three years and wondered at the business-like way she gets things done, even with the distractions of home right at hand. If you’re looking for fun, Kay can do her part in making things lively, too. Busy as she may be—and we warn you she always is—you will never find her too occupied for a little chat or joke with you on the side. We’ll be glad to have Kay on the hill with us next year.

ABOUT EUROPE

Fraternities
Interfraternity Council

During the spring of 1929 the Interfraternity Council decided that the rushing rules were not adequate to the situation and accordingly changed them. These new rushing rules were employed for the first time during the fall of 1929 when rushing started the second week of college.

The first two days of the week, the Freshman class was divided into eight sections, one of which visited each of the fraternity houses for an hour in the evening. The next two days were days of assigned dates as under the old plan and the fifth day was given over to additional conferences as they were called for. The sixth day, as usual, was pledge day.

During the fall Dean Burt A. Hazeltine, Zaremba, '30, Chappell, '31, and Paul, '31, attended the Interfraternity Conference held in New York City.

Pan-Hellenic Association

The Pan-Hellenic Council is composed of a Senior and a Junior from each chapter, the Junior to be Senior member the following year. The advisory council consists of one alumna from each chapter. The Pan-Hellenic Council determines Pledge Day, makes rushing rules, encourages friendly relations among the sororities, and regulates matters of general Pan-Hellenic interest.

Tau Kappa Alpha

Tau Kappa Alpha, whose qualifications for membership include participation in two or more intercollegiate forensic or oratorical contests, was founded in 1908 at Indianapolis for the purpose of promoting debating activity. The society is co-educational and was established at Middlebury in 1921.

During the past college year, a national convention of Tau Kappa Alpha was held at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. Middlebury was represented by Reamer Kline '32. The Middlebury delegate introduced a resolution accepted by the convention in regard to higher eligibility standards. On the Finance committee, he was instrumental in the passing of another in connection with the use of surplus for promotional work in debating.

At this convention, William T. Hade, Middlebury '26 was chosen member-at-large to the National Council.

Kappa Phi Kappa

Kappa Phi Kappa is a national educational fraternity founded at Dartmouth in 1921, and now has chapters in more than twenty leading colleges and universities. The Middlebury chapter was established in 1923. Membership is by election from students who have had at least two courses in education and who plan to enter some kind of educational work.

Bi-weekly meetings are held, chiefly at the homes of faculty members. These meetings arrange for both formal and informal discussions of educational problems, followed by a social hour. The purpose of the fraternity is to develop a professional attitude and spirit, and to promote stimulating intellectual and social contacts.

Such a large proportion of Middlebury men enter the teaching profession that a fraternity of this type seems to have a useful place among the college organizations.

Phi Pi Epsilon

Phi Pi Epsilon, local honorary journalism fraternity was founded in 1921 to encourage journalistic effort and to give dignity and standing to journalistic work and to co-ordinate the policies of the various college publications. As the Kaleidoscope goes to press, the society has had accepted its petition for membership in Pi Delta Epsilon, national collegiate journalism fraternity.

Membership in Phi Pi Epsilon is limited to undergraduates with credit of two or more years of service on college publications boards. Some activities are the preparation of a Style sheet for the Campus, and a Policy program for executive members of the Kaleidoscope. The management of Literati Ball, annual publications formal dance, has been taken over by Phi Pi Epsilon.

Middlebury College Athletic Council

The Athletic Council is the ruling factor in men's athletics. Its membership comprises four members of the faculty, the director of athletics, and five undergraduates, the captains of the major sports and the captains of the minor sports in season. Managers of the various sports are members ex-officio.

Since its founding the Athletic Council has ably performed its many important functions. Among its duties are to approve the election of undergraduate officials of every team, the award of proper athletic insignia to eligible students, the receiving and payment of funds for the Athletic Association as well as the general supervision and regulation of all athletic schedules. The action of the Athletic Council in any one of these matters is final.

ARTHUR M. BROWN

Graduated from Williams in 1907 having played varsity football and track four years. In his senior year, he won the Lehman cup for all-around ability in athletics. After leaving Williams, he coached four sports at DePauw university, winning one baseball and two football championships in his three years there. From 1915 to 1916 he coached successful teams at Grinnell. From there he went to Trenton, N. J., as Supervisor of Physical Education of Public Schools. In 1919 he came to Middlebury as coach of Football, Basketball and Track. In 1920 he won a state title in football and since then has produced eight state championship teams in track. In 1924 he was made Director of Athletics and Physical Education, transferring his coaching duties to Track and Cross Country. Coach Brown is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa, the American Football Coaches Association and the College Physical Directors Society.

BEN H. BECK

Graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1916 where his athletic ability was well known. He played football, basketball and track, holding a captaincy in football and a track record in the 880. In 1918 he coached the Lincoln (Neb.) High School to a Missouri Valley championship. From 1918 to 1923 he coached successful teams at Hamline (Minn.) University, winning a Minnesota state championship in football. After coaching an Eastern Massachusetts championship basketball team at Medford in 1927 he came to Middlebury as coach of football and basketball. He is a member of Acacia, the American Football Coaches Association and College Physical Directors Society.

HARVEY W. HESSLER

Attended the University of Cincinnati, graduating in 1927. He won letters in football, baseball and track while at college. Upon graduating, he came to Middlebury as coach of freshman football. During his three years in that capacity, he has turned out one championship team and tied for another. At the present time he is coach of varsity baseball. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi.

RICHARD J. PHELAN

Is a newcomer at Middlebury, having graduated from Holy Cross in 1929. He made an impressive record while in college, playing football four years and holding the captaincy as a senior. He came to Middlebury in 1929 as line coach for the varsity football team and coach of hockey. He is under contract at present with the New York Giants.

Although the 1929 edition of Middlebury's football history will set down the fact that five games were lost and only three won, the three wins more than make up for the defeats as these victories brought the Vermont State football championship back to Middlebury after a lapse of too many years. With victories over Norwich and Vermont, a football season would be a success for Middlebury even if all the other games were on the other side of the ledger and so the 1929 season can rightly be called a success.

Coach Ben H. Beck was faced with difficulties all through the season, but he overcame them all to give the Panther a chance to sit on top of the Vermont football world once more. Many of the veterans, of whom much had been expected, were not available. Huntington was out due to sickness, Whitman did not return to college; and the loss of these two handicapped the building of a line. Jacobs was unavailable at the beginning of the season although he saw service before the curtain fell. Wilson was another late comer. The Columbia and Williams contests were hard on the team and injuries hampered the squad continually. Keenan was unable to play most of the season. Davis was forced out the latter part of the season by a leg injury. Johnson was lost because of a broken collar bone sustained in the St. Lawrence game. Events like these made Beck's job a hard one and he is to be complimented highly on his success in face of these difficulties.

With Richard J. Phelan, captain of the 1928 Holy Cross eleven, to help him, Coach Beck set about the task of building a grid machine early in September. The boys were worked hard and the results of this intensive drill showed themselves as early as the Columbia game. Although the Lions walked off with a victory by a large score, the Middlebury rooters could be happy that the seasoned Columbia crew was held to as low a score as it was.

The Williams game was another hard encounter and the team showed the local fans some classy defensive football. The scheduling of two such hard games to start the season takes a lot out of a team and the victory over Mass. Aggies was hailed with joy.

Defeats by Springfield, St. Lawrence, and Providence followed and the injured list grew and grew. Coach Beck used only second string men against Providence in order to save his regulars for the state championship games and this strategy was upheld when his rested crew completely overwhelmed both Norwich and Vermont.

The team that beat Norwich and Vermont on successive Saturdays showed the results of Coach Beck's tutoring. Both games were filled with smart football and the defeats sustained in the earlier games of the season were entirely forgotten in the thrill of winning the championship of the state.

Team play was the key note of these victories and team play is the key note of all Middlebury football. This team play, the foundation of which has been laid during the past two seasons; should grow and grow with the coming years so that the taste of victory which has been introduced to Middlebury fandom should increase.

Captain Guarnaccia was the brightest star in the Middlebury constellation all year and it is with regret that we have seen the greatest back who ever played in the Blue and White uniform in his last game. The Panther also loses Johnson, McLeod, Hasseltine, Wright, Valois, Wilson, Jacobs, George Davis, Nylen, Humeston, and Sun, but with the freshman team supplying some new material, the Blue and White of Middlebury should have an even more successful 1930 season.
COLUMBIA GAME

Coach Beck's grid eleven opened its season against Columbia in New York. A victory was hardly to be expected against the heavy Lion aggregation and the score of 38 to 6 was very satisfactory. Captain Guarnaccia and his scrappy crew played great ball in face of the conditions and provided the large crowd of Blue and White rooters with plenty of thrills.

With many veterans failing to return to school or out for other reasons, Coach Beck was forced to use a makeshift lineup against Coach Crowley's seasoned team. The Lion forward wall outweighed the Panther line by a goodly margin and the veteran Columbia backfield was far superior to the Blue ball toters in weight. Although outweighed, the Panther crew was not outfought and the Lions had to scrap for every gain and the contest was closer than the score would indicate.

The Lions boasted a seasoned and capable crew of ball carriers and backed them with a flashy youngster in Hewitt; but few of the Columbia backs could match Middlebury's Captain "Sammy." Guarnaccia was one of the outstanding backs on the field and when he raced twenty yards around Columbia's end for a touchdown, the Blue rooters gave him a great hand. "Tommy" Sun, starting his first varsity game, played great ball.

WILLIAMS GAME

Williams invaded the Middlebury gridiron for the first time in many years and managed to eke out a win from Coach Beck's Panther team by the slim margin of 13 to 0 in the second game of the season. Once again sheer weight and force was the difference between victory and defeat. The heavier Williams eleven, fortified by capable substitutes, outgained the Blue by a wide margin, but could not make yardage when near the goal line. The Purple had to resort to the air to score when gaining through the line proved difficult.

Middlebury nearly scored after two fine runs by Captain Guarnaccia. "Sammy" raced around the Williams ends, first one and then the other, for a first down on the Purple four yard line, but there the attack petered out.
The Panther football team showed its first real flash of power in the Mass. Aggie game at Amherst and the touted Maroon eleven was beaten 14 to 12 after a spirited battle. Scoring two touchdowns in the first half, the Blue and White assumed a lead which they protected throughout the remainder of the game although the Aggies put up a great fight.

Uncorking a powerful offense with Captain Guarnaccia doing most of the work, Middlebury scored at the very start of the game. Johnson was calling the plays perfectly and the Aggies were at a loss to know what to do. The second touchdown was scored on a neat lateral pass play. McLeod kicked both extra points by neat place kicking. The Aggies put up a great battle in the second half, scoring two touchdowns and being within six yards of another when the final whistle blew.

M. A. C. GAME

SPRINGFIELD GAME

The strong Springfield College grid eleven took the measure of the Panther team in a game played at Springfield. Although the Blue and White fought hard the Massachusetts boys were too strong and won out 19 to 0. With a great record behind them which included a win over Brown, the Red and White played impressive football, although not once opening up with the flashy game they are noted for.

Captain Guarnaccia was again the big gun of the Middlebury team and it was his playing in this game that won for "Sammy" the right halfback position on the "All Opponent" team picked by the Springfield players. The strong Red and White line was too much for Guarnaccia and the Middlebury running attack, and not once could the Panther make consistent gains. Flashes of offensive power showed up on occasions, but for the most part, Middlebury was forced to wage a defensive battle.

Twice, the Middlebury offense carried the ball within scoring distance of the Springfield goal line, but in each instance the Red and White defense proved to be too strong and the points were not forthcoming.
McLeod banging off tackle for fifteen yards, Vermont game

ST. LAWRENCE GAME

Porter Field was the scene of the most disastrous game of the season when St. Lawrence University's eleven romped to a 32 to 0 victory over a bewildered Panther team. Coached by Roy Clogston, erstwhile assistant to Coach Beck, the New Yorkers were thoroughly familiar with the Middlebury attack and completely smothered any semblance of an offense. The Red offense was anything but stopped and the flashy Percy led the way to five touchdowns.

Although the score was bad enough, the worst news to Middlebury rooters was that Johnson, quarterback star of the Beckmen, had received a broken collar bone which would keep him out of the game for the rest of the season.

PROVIDENCE GAME

With injuries putting most of the first string men on the injury list during the first part of the week following the St. Lawrence game; Coach Beck took no chances of losing his regulars for the state series, and sent his second string team against the strong Providence College eleven, the Rhode Islanders winning 33 to 0.

The Blue and White put up a good fight at Providence, but their opponents were much too strong for a more even battle. A hard running attack and a strong forward passing game enabled the Providence eleven to win out.

NORWICH GAME

Coach Beck's strategy in keeping the regulars out of the Providence game proved successful the following Saturday when a rested crew of Panther gridmen trotted on to Porter Field and completely overwhelmed a favored Norwich eleven by a score of 7 to 0. The Cadets came to Middlebury expecting to win the state championship again by adding the Panther's hide to the belt where Vermont's scalp already hung, but the Beckmen had other ideas and proceeded to carry them out.

The Panther offense ripped through the Cadets at the outset of the game, but a penalty spoiled things and then the Horsemen started on a rampage of their own. The Middlebury defense held on the four yard line and then things see-sawed back and forth until Captain Guarnaccia was hurt in the second period and had to be carried from the field. Things looked bad for the Middlebury cause, but the half ended with no damage.

With the opening of the second half and "Sammy" lying on a stretcher on the sidelines, the Panther cause did not look so good. The team felt differently however and after Valois had recovered a Norwich fumble on the Cadets' 31 yard line, McLeod and Foote ripped the Maroon line to shreds and "Mac" finally ended the onslaught with a touchdown and added the extra point. The remainder of the game saw the Middlebury team in complete command of the situation and the Cadets went home thoroughly whipped.

VERMONT GAME

The final game of the season saw practically the entire student body at Burlington ready to cheer on the Middlebury team in its quest for the football championship of Vermont. There was some question as to whether Captain Guarnaccia would start the game or not, but he did and led his team to a win over the Green and Gold by a score of 19 to 0 which is the largest margin ever obtained over the Catamounts.

Not the slightest bit of doubt as to which team would win existed from the very start. Receiving the opening kick-off; the Panther running attack got under way and ripped the Vermont defense to shreds. First down after first down was made and the march did not come to an end until "Sammy" had scored a touchdown. The extra point was missed.

After missing a second touchdown when Guarnaccia fumbled on the four yard line; the Panthers still held the upper hand and the Blue captain redeemed himself in the second period by snatching a desperate Vermont pass out of the air and racing 87 yards to another score. Once more the extra point was missed; but the Middlebury stands were already sure of victory and were boisterous in their cheers.

The second half saw the Cats making desperate attempts to score, but failing every time. Their only real chance came when Mace made a first down after a long run on the four yard line, but the Panther line held and took the ball on downs. Coach Beck sent in his substitutes during the closing minutes of the game, every man on the squad getting into the play for at least a few seconds.

Disaster overtook the Middlebury basketball team in the 1929-30 season and although prospects were good at the beginning of the year, things went wrong and the quintet was only able to win six games out of fourteen played. This would not have been so bad, but two of the losses were at the hands of state opponents and cost the Green Mountain Championship.

With Sorensen, the only regular of last year’s championship quintet to be lost to the team, pre-season dope pointed to a successful year. Spooner was not in college during the first semester and this veteran guard was not available until the later games, but even this failed to dim the hopes which were high before the schedule actually started.

Captain Humeston was back for his center position and Johnson was once more available for duty in the forecourt while Casey was back for a guard berth. That left only two positions to fill. Bullukian and Ashdown, both of whom saw service in the later stages of last season, were counted on to fill the other forward position and Valois was groomed to take Spooner’s place. Valois was injured and his loss did not help matters any, but Hoffman was a capable guard and could fill his place.

With these pre-season hopes, the Middlebury rooters turned out en-masse for the opening game with McGill only to see the Panther team decidedly off form and unable to get baskets even though passing much better than the Canadians, with the result that the first game was lost. This dampened the high hopes somewhat, but the majority still thought that the team would snap into the win column soon and when Williams was defeated on the home court this opinion seemed vindicated, but the team then took a slump and lost three games in a row during a trip to southern New England.

By this time, people were beginning to realize that things were not going right, and the rest of the season showed a Middlebury team playing unbeatable basketball one night and mediocre the next game.

When the team defeated a St. Michael’s quintet on their own court, which had been winning every game, the fans became a bit cheerier. St. Michael’s was also favored with a veteran team and had been walking over everything in sight until the Panther team subdued them. This win showed that the Middlebury team had the power if it could get the spark to make it show itself. Dopesters had established the St. Michael’s team as favorite and a Middlebury win swung the pendulum to the Blue and White and made the Panther a favorite to retain his State Title.

The dope was upset again however, when the Norwich Cadets staged an exhibition of basket shooting in the Rutland Armory which was a bit too strong for the Panther and won out by a slim margin. This defeat of a Middlebury basketball team at the hands of Norwich was even more surprising than the Panther’s win over the Purple and set the whole race into a rather unusual situation. This game was responsible more than any other for the final outcome of the Green Mountain Conference championship tournament. It is true that the Cadets played way above their heads, and with Fanos and Hartford dropping the ball through the net from all angles and distances, the Blue was helpless. The Blue team was not playing the basketball that it could have played.

Losing to Norwich made it necessary for Middlebury to win all of its remaining state games in order to win the Conference championship for a second time. This was a hard task, but as the St. Michael’s team had been beaten at Winooski, there was every reason to believe that they could be beaten again. This was not the case however, and when the Purple invaded the McCullough gymnasium, the home fans were to see them win in one of the most uninteresting games of the year. Both teams played a defensive game and the exciting moments were few. A little better luck in having shots drop through the net instead of running around the rim and falling outside would have changed matters a lot, but the game was lost and with it went the state title as St. Michaels easily trimmed Norwich in the only game left on their state schedule.

The feature of the closing games was the showing of Sweet, a freshman who took Humeston's place after the Middlebury captain had received an injury. Sweet played great basketball and should prove valuable next season. With Captain Humeston, Casey, Johnson, Hoffman, Spooner and Valois graduating, the Middlebury basketball team will have to be almost entirely rebuilt for next season. Bullukian and Ashdown, of this year's regulars remain and will be aided by Belfanti, Embler, and Ragatz of this year's substitutes. The addition of Sweet and Corliss along with other freshmen will be the big help.

The team showed the same Beck zone defense all year long and was able to hold the opponents in hand most of the time. Weakness in offense was the main thing which impeded the progress of the 1929-30 quintet. "Johnnie" Johnson was able only in a few games to exhibit the scoring power that he showed last year. Although his floor game was the best of any forward in Vermont, his eye was not as good as it was last season. Humeston was also unable to find the hoop as regularly and this falling off in offensive power was a big item in bringing about some of the defeats by close margins.

MIDDLEBURY 23—McGILL 26

The Middlebury basketball team opened its season earlier than usual and omitted the customary Christmas vacation trip to New York and vicinity. McGill was the first opponent, invading the home court December 13 and walking off with a 26 to 23 victory. Although outplaying the visitors, the Panther aggregation could not find its scoring eye and missed shot after shot from easy angles. The Canadians flashed a snappy passing game and while not quite as adept at working the ball into scoring positions as the Blue team, made the scoring chances good when they did get into position. Coming from behind to tie the score near the end of the second half, the Blue offense flashed brightly, but the pace was too fast and the Canadians won out in the last few minutes.

MIDDLEBURY 28—WILLIAMS 23

Williams invaded the Middlebury court January 11 for the first game after the holidays, but led by the diminutive Bullukian who flashed all over the court sinking shots from all angles, the Panther quintet breezed in a victor by the score of 28 to 23. The first half of the game was close with neither team able to get much of an edge. Play on both sides was ragged at times, but at times became brilliant. The second half was much faster with the Blue team jumping into the lead and increasing it as the game went on until the Purple spurted near the end to score a brace of goals. Bullukian gave one of the most brilliant exhibitions of shooting and general basketball ability seen in Middlebury for a long time.

MIDDLEBURY 17—M.I.T. 52

Captain Humeston led his team on an invasion of Boston and vicinity, but disaster awaited the Middlebury team and three defeats were chalked up before the trip was over. The first defeat came at the hands of the strong M. I. T. quintet at Cambridge by the score of 52 to 17. This was one of the worst beatings a Middlebury team has suffered in years. The Engineers flashed a strong passing game and coupled with good shooting were decidedly too strong for the Panther team. As the game progressed the play waxed rough and the referee was kept pretty busy trying to keep the game in hand. The Blue play was ragged and completely outclassed by the clever Tech team.
Providence College succeeded in adding another loss to the Middlebury defeat column at Providence when a team built out of the ruins of last year’s New England champions outclassed the Blue quintet 44 to 24. Although the Wineapple team which brought basketball glory to Providence graduated last June, the Rhode Islanders managed to save something from the wreck of its championship quintet and with some newcomers from last year’s freshman class, moulded together a combine of great strength. Middlebury put up a great fight, but the Providence team was just too strong and won out in one of the cleanest yet hardest fought battles staged on the Providence court in some time. The Rhode Islanders’ ability to find the hoop from all angles coupled with their strong passing game was enough to send the Beckmen down to defeat.

Returning to Boston, the Panther five played Boston university, but went down to defeat by the score of 27 to 21. The B. U. players exhibited some fine shooting and the Middlebury defense could not seem to hold them in check. Middlebury was passing well, but could not find the hoop with much regularity. The Bostonians presented a well balanced team and was able to take the lead at the start and hold it. Their defense held the fighting Panthers in check and the basket shooting of the Terriers was devastating.

The Middlebury team returned from the disastrous trip to find themselves scheduled to meet the strongest St. Michael’s five in years on the Winooski court. With an impressive record unblemished by defeat, the St. Michael’s team, led by Slattery, one of the high scorers in the east, was a slight favorite to win. Captain Humeston and his team entered the fray in a determined frame of mind and when the smoke of battle had cleared, Middlebury was on the long end of a 34 to 31 score. Play was fast and spirited from beginning to end. The Middlebury team kept Slattery well covered and managed to find its scoring power long enough to keep on even terms with the Purple quintet as the game progressed. With but a few minutes to play, Bullukian put the game on ice by sneaking out from a scrimmage with the ball and dropping in a corner shot. The game was one of the hardest fought of the season and a good sequel to the great game played between these same teams at Winooski last year.

Continuing the winning way, the Middlebury team invaded Troy and defeated the R. P. I. quintet by a score of 38 to 35. R. P. I. had previously defeated Vermont in a high scoring game and the offense of the Engineers was expected to give plenty of trouble, but the Beckmen’s zone defense kept the score down to a reasonable mark and the Blue team flashed a good steady game to breeze in a victor by a close margin. The Panther play was much steadier than in previous games and the Engineers were kept on the run through the entire game.

The flashy Colgate quintet defeated the Beckmen in a close game staged at Hamilton by the score of 34 to 21. Captain Humeston and his teammates played a hard game and the contest was much closer than the score indicates. The Panther team was within striking distance right up until the final few minutes when the Colgate five spurted and increased their lead to the final margin of victory. The Colgate players exhibited a flashy team which played great basketball. Offensively and defensively they were one of the best quintets met by the Blue during the season. Fighting hard, the Panther was able to keep the score close throughout the first half and most of the second. The pace became faster as the game progressed and the Blue finally tired under the strain and the Colgate quintet stepped out and increased its lead point by point during the final few minutes.

MIDDLEBURY 33—NORWICH 35

The real upset of the Green Mountain conference title race came at Rutland when the Norwich team defeated the Panther five by the close score of 35 to 33. Led by Fanes and Hartford who had one of their best nights and were dropping them in from all angles and distances, the Cadets played good basketball and won out in the last few minutes of play. The Middlebury team could not seem to find the hoop at moments when scores would have meant victory instead of defeat and lost out in the one game which did more to make the final outcome of the race what it was than any other one game. From the opening whistle until the close of the contest, play was fast and furious with the Cadets playing like demons. Middlebury was not working as smoothly as usual and was unable to score on occasions when scores should have been made. This coupled with the long shots by Fanos and Hartford spelled defeat for the Panther.

MIDDLEBURY 21—SPRINGFIELD 22

In one of the most exciting games ever staged in the home gym, Springfield College nosed out a fighting Middlebury team by the closest of margins, 22 to 21. Leading by a wide margin at half time, the Springfield team was forced to the limit in the second half and only a basket by Cook from the middle of the floor in the last minute saved the Red team from defeat. Led by Humeston, the Panther team made one of the gamest uphill battles in local basketball history and tied the score late in the second half. With the Blue one point in the lead Cook dropped in his long one to break up the battle.

MIDDLEBURY 34—VERMONT 16

The first game of the annual home and home series with the University of Vermont was played on the Middlebury court and the Panther team was an easy victor by the score of 34 to 16. The Vermont team was the weakest seen in years and was never any match for the speedy play of the Blue and White aggregation. "Johnnie" Johnson was on a rampage and was dropping them in from all over the court. He even obliged in the second half when the Panther was way ahead and dropped in a basket for the Catamounts. Continuing their steady play of the second half of the Springfield game, the Blue and White rapidly drew away from the Vermonters at the very start and were never in any danger. Even the substitutes who played most of the second half held the Cats in check.

MIDDLEBURY 15—ST. MICHAEL'S 18

In one of the most heartbreaking games of the year, the St. Michael's team practically clinched the Green Mountain Conference championship by defeating the Panther quintet at Middlebury 18 to 15. The game was a close guarding affair and devoid of a great many thrills which go with an offensive game. Entering the game in a determined mood, the Middlebury team played steady ball to lead at half time, but could not seem to make shots drop when they would count. Breaks on out-of-bounds balls and balls which rolled around the hoop but refused to drop were not any helps to the Middlebury cause. Connally sent the Mikemen into the lead at the beginning of the second half and when the Middlebury team could not find the basket, the Purple rolled up a six point lead. The Panther fought back hard and was gradually closing the gap when Captain Humeston crashed into the wall and had to be carried from the floor. With Humeston out of the game, Sweet jumped center and collected a foul shot as did Bullukian as the game drew to a close with the Mikemen leading 18 to 15.

MIDDLEBURY 26—VERMONT 16

Middlebury invaded the Catamount's lair for the return game and won easily 26 to 16. Vermont played better basketball than they did in the first game of the series, but was not a match for the speedy Beckmen who passed in rings around the Vermont team. The Panther was never in danger and did not exert himself any more than was necessary in order to keep a comfortable lead. The feature of the game was the playing of "Dick" Sweet, the freshman star who was playing in Humeston's center position. Sweet collected eleven points during the evening and was in the thick of the play at all times. Coach Beck used his substitutes liberally, but the Vermonters could do but little more against the subs than they could against the regulars and the Panther quintet walked off the floor a victor and kept the slate clean in Middlebury-Vermont rivalry for the present year.

MIDDLEBURY 21—NORWICH 12

Norwich came to Middlebury for the return game of the home and home series and the Middlebury quintet closed its schedule with an easy victory by the score of 21 to 12. After the battle at Rutland, much was expected from the Norwich team and their weak showing was quite a disappointment. At no time was the outcome in doubt as the Panther team jumped into the lead at the very start and was on the long end of a 14 to 4 count at half time. The highly touted Fanos failed to show any impressive form and was held scoreless from the floor. At no time during the game did the Cadets show any of the form which won for them at Rutland and the Middlebury team was content with holding a commanding lead and did not try very hard to run up a high score. This game marked the last appearance in Middlebury basketball uniforms of Johnson, Casey, Spooner and Hoffman, all of whom graduate in June.

On paper, the 1929 Middlebury baseball team looked like it would be a strong one and the winter discussions were optimistic. Although Cook was the only veteran hurler that could be counted on since Hingston's shoulder did not seem to come around into first class condition, the rest of the nine would in all probability be made up of seasoned material and prospects looked bright.

Coach Harvey W. Hessler issued a call for candidates and one of the largest squads in years turned out. The number was trimmed down somewhat, but the real worth of the men was undeterminable due to the fact that the weather man was not very amiable and the gym was the only place practice could be held. It was well along towards May before the team was able to go outside.

This lack of outdoor practice showed in the opening game of the season which St. Lawrence university won. From then on, the team developed rapidly and played high class baseball. Breaks were instrumental in a good many of the downfalls and although the State Championship once more went to the University of Vermont, the season can truly be called one of the most successful in years with 9 games won and 6 lost. Hessler's crew ended the season with a bang by taking Norwich, Tufts, Clark and St. Lawrence into camp in rapid succession.

Coach Hessler's crew of veterans worked smoothly all through the season, but the Panther mentor was not content with letting his veterans do all the work and at every opportunity he used freshmen and other unseasoned material in an endeavor to develop men to carry on in years to come. Notable among the developments were Bob McDermott, a freshman, and Forrest Spooner. These two lads were developed into capable pitchers. Spooner defeated M.A.C. and Tufts and lost only to Providence which was no small accomplishment, while McDermott beat Clark and pitched good ball in two other games. Nelson, a freshman, played well in the outfield.

Cook lived up to his enviable record as a pitcher, being on the mound in nine out of the fifteen games. The "Red-head" set down Upsala, Vermont, Northeastern, St. Michael's, Norwich and St. Lawrence, the first three being shut outs and lost only to Vermont, Brown and St. Lawrence. At least two of these losses were due to factors unrelated to the pitcher's box.

Notable among the achievements of the 1929 baseball team are defeats of Vermont, Norwich, St. Lawrence and Tufts. Vermont was whitewashed 7 to 0 on Porter Field during Junior Week due to the great pitching of Cook. Norwich was hammered at Northfield while St. Lawrence succumbed to Cook on Porter Field and Tufts was turned back by Spooner.

Captain Willis, Sorensen, Kelley, Anderson, Douglas and Spooner were lost by graduation and this leaves a heavy burden on the shoulders of the remaining veterans. Raymond Franzoni was elected captain for the 1930 season, but left college and "Red" Cook was then chosen to lead the team. With Franzoni gone too, Jacobs is the only member with infield experience to be left. Humeston and Nelson are left for the outfield while Cook and McDermott are the pitchers remaining. The remainder of the 1930 team will have to be made up from the large squad carried during 1929 and the entering class of freshmen.
MIDDLEBURY 1—ST. LAWRENCE 5

Coach Hessler’s baseball team opened its season by opposing St. Lawrence university at Canton, N. Y. The Panthers started with Cook on the mound and “Red” pitched an excellent game, but the team could not produce the necessary punch and lost 5 to 1.

The game, which was played May 1, was featured by a rally in the eighth inning, when Middlebury’s run was scored. Hasseltine made two hits out of four times at bat.

MIDDLEBURY 1—UPSALA 0

Returning to Porter Field for the second game of the season, the Middlebury team took a strong Upsala nine into camp 1 to 0. The contest was a pretty duel of pitchers with Middlebury’s “Red” Cook just a shade better than the Upsala twirler, holding the New Jersey players to three hits and striking out ten. Middlebury scored the only run of the game in the first inning, on Nelson’s single and infield errors.

MIDDLEBURY 7—VERMONT 0

Cook, starting his third game in succession for the Blue, twirled his second shutout in a row by letting the Vermont nine down with a pair of bingles and whitewashing them 7 to 0 before a delighted Junior Week crowd at Porter Field. Master of the situation at all times, Bob gave the Panther a victory over a Vermont baseball nine for the first time in years.

MIDDLEBURY 10—NORWICH 18

Norwich defeated a Middlebury team that plainly showed the affects of the Junior Prom the night before by the score of 18 to 10. The Blue used four twirlers in trying to stem the tide, but played poor ball in the field to lose to the hard hitting Cadets.
MIDDLEBURY 2—BROWN 5

Brown defeated Middlebury 5 to 2 in the first game of the eastern New England trip. Cook pitched good ball but was not supported any too well.

MIDDLEBURY 6—RHODE ISLAND STATE 7

The second game of the trip resulted in a defeat by Rhode Island State by a score of 7 to 6. The team fought hard from behind, but was not quite equal to the situation.

MIDDLEBURY 3—PROVIDENCE 7

The strong Providence College nine took the Panther team into camp 7 to 3 at Providence. Spooner was the Blue's pitcher but could not hold the Providence hitters in check.

MIDDLEBURY 2—NORTHEASTERN 0

Northeastern was beaten 2 to 0 in the final game of the trip with 'Red' Cook pitching his third shut out of the season. Cook's pitching was masterful and he held the heavy hitting Northeasterners in check all through the game.

MIDDLEBURY 19—ST. MICHAEL'S 3

The Panther baseball forces slaughtered the weak St. Michael's team 19 to 3 at Winooski. Hits ratted from the Middlebury bats with great gusto and buried the Purple team completely. The Middlebury team made sixteen bingles and secured seven bases on balls from the offerings of Connally, St. Michael's pitcher, whose team also committed nine errors in the field. 'Red' Cook struck out thirteen men and held the opposition to three hits in eight innings.

MIDDLEBURY 3—MASS. AGGIES 2

"Forrie" Spooner pitched great ball to give the Panther nine a win over Mass. Aggies 3 to 2. A pitching battle all the way, Spooner had just a shade on the Aggie twirler. Although outhit by the Aggies, eight to seven, bingles by Humeston and Hasseltine together with a base on balls to Franzoni scored two runs in the first inning. 'Swede' Sorensen featured the game with a long hit which he stretched into a home run when the Aggie outfielders fumbled on the relay.

MIDDLEBURY 2—VERMONT 4

Middlebury lost a heartbreaker to Vermont on Centennial Field by a score of 4 to 2. Cook pitched a truly great game, but breaks were against him and the Cats eked out the luckiest victory they have had in some time. The Panther team outhit Vermont, eight to three, but could not score when hits meant runs. Humeston banged out a triple in the first inning, Jacobs scoring ahead of him. In the ninth, a rally nearly won the game. Humeston, Crocker, and Kelley singled with two out, but Willis grounded out to end the battle and give Vermont the State Championship.
MIDDLEBURY 16—NORWICH 3

Middlebury obtained sweet revenge for a previous defeat by drubbing the Norwich Cadets 16 to 3 in the Memorial Day game at Northfield. The Blue and White team had its batting eye along and hammered the opposing pitchers unmercifully, and made eighteen hits to six for Norwich. Sorensen and Humeston, with four singles apiece, led the attack for Middlebury. Jacobs' home run was a feature of the game.

MIDDLEBURY 4—TUFTS 2

The strong Tufts team was taken into camp on Porter Field by a score of 4 to 2. The game was fast and interesting with Spooner a bit better in the pitching duel. The Middlebury infield, with fast double plays, was particularly effective in this game. Parkhurst, Tufts pitcher, held Middlebury to three hits, but his support was weak.

MIDDLEBURY 9—CLARK UNIVERSITY 4

In a game played amid blustering winds, the Middlebury team continued its winning habit by beating the Clark university nine 9 to 4. "Bob" McDermott pitched the entire game and kept well scattered the nine hits made by the Clark. Many errors in the Clark infield were responsible for the top-heavy score.

MIDDLEBURY 5—ST. LAWRENCE 2

Coach Hessler's team ended its season by beating St. Lawrence 5 to 2 before a large Commencement crowd. Cook pitched and got revenge for the defeat suffered at Canton. Middlebury made six hits; St. Lawrence four. Anderson scored two runs for Middlebury, while St. Lawrence made both tallies on errors. Three bases on balls by O'Brien, St. Lawrence pitcher, together with two hits, in the third inning, scored four runs for Middlebury.

Once again the Middlebury track team has won the State Championship and by a margin that leaves not the least bit of doubt as to the best team. Captain "Gilly" Smith led his team in the footsteps of numerous other Panther cinder path teams and completely overwhelmed the Vermont and Norwich contenders.

The weather man was no help at all at the beginning of the season and the team was unable to get in any real practice before the first meet of the season with R. P. I. at Troy. The Engineers won by a slim margin mainly because the Middlebury team had not been able to get into condition. With the weather man relenting a bit, the team was able to get in some good training before the St. Lawrence meet and won handily. As St. Lawrence later defeated R. P. I., the results of training can be seen. The Williams track team nosed out Coach Beck's cinder path team in a close meet at Williamstown, following which, the men returned home to prepare for the state meet. The preparation over, the squad traveled to Burlington to win the State title easily.

With graduation, "Gilly" Smith was lost to Middlebury's track team and so passes perhaps the greatest runner who ever wore the Blue and White of Middlebury. His consistent work in the sprints gave Middlebury first places in those events in every meet. Captain-elect Dalton had a good season and finished by breaking the state record in the two mile run with a time of 10 minutes, 4 and 3/5 seconds. Paul also broke the state record in the pole vault with a leap of 11 feet 8 inches. Guarnaccia was once more a consistent point getter in the shot and discus throws.
R.P.I. 74—MIDDLEBURY 61
Troy, N. Y., May 4, 1929

Unable to get into first class condition because of inclement weather, the Middlebury track team lost the first meet of the season to R. P. I. at Troy, by a score of 74 to 61. Although the team took eight out of a possible fifteen first places, inability to place men in second and third positions cost the team valuable points and the meet.

Captain Smith ran true to form in winning both the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Guarnaccia won the discus throw and was second in the shot put by half an inch. DuBois sprang a surprise by winning the hammer throw.

Middlebury made a clean sweep in the pole vault with Paul and Williams tying for first place with Tomlinson third, but the Engineers did the same in the running broad jump with Webber, Conlon, and Alven finishing in that order. Other first places scored by Middlebury went to Goltry in the 440 yard run, Schmidt in the javelin throw, and Bagley in the high jump.

SUMMARIES:

100 Yard Dash—Won by Smith (M); Bishop (R), second; Bibby (M), third. Time: 10.4 sec.

Pole Vault—Paul (M); and Williams (M), tied for first; Tomlinson (M), third. Height 10 ft. 6 in.

MIDDLEBURY 84 1/2—ST. LAWRENCE 50 1/2

The Middlebury track team defeated St. Lawrence university trackmen 84 1/2 to 50 1/2 in the only home meet of the year. Two college records fell when Paul pole vaulted to a new height of 11 feet and Schmidt hurled the hammer 128 feet 2 inches. The Panther team took first place in every event except the hurdle races and a tie in the pole vault. In the mile, two mile and quarter mile runs, the Blue and White swept all three places.
"Gil" Smith continued his unbroken string of dash victories and ran the 100 in ten seconds flat which is as fast as has ever been done on the Porter Field track. Goltry won the 440 nicely with Burrows and Sanzo behind him. The two mile run saw four Middlebury men running within a yard of each other and the rest of the field far in the rear. The four finished in almost a blanket finish. The mile race was also swept by the Panther runners. The hurdles were the only events to be won by the New Yorkers.

SUMMARIES:

100 Yard Dash—Won by Smith (M); Percy (St.L), second; Goltry (M), third. Time: 10 sec. (Equals College Record.)

220 Yard Dash—Won by Smith (M); Percy (St.L), second; Goltry (M), third. Time: 23 sec.

440 Yard Run—Won by Goltry (M); Burrows (M), second; Sanzo (M), third. Time: 54.8 sec.

880 Yard Run—Won by Farnham (M); Shoen (St.L), second; Calder (St.L), third. Time: 2 min. 10 sec.

One Mile Run—Won by Butler (M); Hanson (M), second; Cox (M), third. Time: 4 min. 55 sec.

Two Mile Run—Won by Dalton (M); Harwood (M), second; Butler (M), third. Time: 10 min. 55 sec.

120 Yard High Hurdles—Won by Gary (St.L); Hoyt (St.L), second; Sherman (M), third. Time: 17.4 sec.

220 Yard Low Hurdles—Won by Hoyt (St.L); Cary (St.L), second; Sherman (M), third. Time: 28 sec.

Javelin Throw—Won by Schmidt (M); Johnson (St.L), second; Vreeland (St.L), third. Distance: 154 ft. 2 in.

Discus Throw—Won by Guarnaccia (M); Johnson, M.T. (M), second; Vreeland (St.L), third. Distance: 122 ft. 2 in.

Hammer Throw—Won by Schmidt (M); Vreeland (St.L), second; Capello (St.L), third. Distance: 128 ft. 2 in. (New College Record.)

16 Pound Shot Put—Won by Guarnaccia (M); Capello (St.L), second; Grant (St.L), third. Distance: 39 ft. 9½ in.

Broad Jump—Won by Johnson, B. C. (M); Percy (St.L), second; Coughlin (St.L), third. Distance: 21 ft. 1 in.

High Jump—Won by Bagley (M); Van Dyke (St.L), second; tie between Affleck (M), and Farnington (St.L); for third place. Height: 3 ft. 10½ in. (Equals College Record.)

Pole Vault—Tie between Paul (M), and Brown (St.L), for first place; Williams (M), third. Height: 11 ft. (New College Record.)
Pronounced superiority in the running events enabled the Williams trackmen to defeat the Middlebury team at Williamstown by a score of 75 to 60. The Purple runners took every first place in the track events with the exception of the sprints which Captain Smith won handily. The excellent work of the Blue and White in the field events kept down the score. "Sammy" Guarnaccia won first places in the shot put and the discus throw while Schmidt again broke the college hammer record by tossing it 135 feet 11 inches.

Goltry ran the half mile for the first time in the season and finished second to Goodbody of Williams. The weakness of the Panther team in the hurdle events was again noticeable and Williams took first and second places in both hurdle races. Little broke the Williams pole vault record when he cleared the bar at 12 feet. "Dick" Paul who broke the Middlebury record in the St. Lawrence meet finished third, while Tomlinson, who failed to place in the meet with the New Yorkers, placed second.

SUMMARIES:

100 Yard Dash—Won by Smith (M); Straw (W), second; Bartaw (W), third. Time: 10 2/5 sec.
220 Yard Dash—Won by Smith (M); Straw (W), second; Stayman (W), third. Time: 22 3/5 sec.
440 Yard Run—Won by Skinner (W); Goltry (M), second; Baptiste (W), third. Time: 51 sec.
880 Yard Run—Won by Goodbody (W); Goltry (M), second; Farnham (M), third. Time: 2 min. 11 1/5 sec.
One Mile Run—Won by Chapman (W); Butler (M), second; Reeves (W), third. Time: 4 min. 36 1/5 sec.
Two Mile Run—Won by Guernsey (W); Dalton (M), second; Suffern (W), third. Time: 9 min. 58 sec.
120 Yard High Hurdles—Won by Dougherty (W); Shoaff (W), second; Sherman (M), third. Time: 15 1/2 sec.
Dalton, in a beautiful race, nosed out Hinckley, the Norwich two miler, for a new state record of 10 minutes 4 and 3/5 seconds which is almost nine seconds better than the former record. “Dick” Paul broke the state pole vault record, clearing the bar at 11 feet 8 inches or eight inches higher than the previous record. Another state record fell when Taylor of Norwich threw the javelin 167 feet 2 inches, out-distancing the former record by eight inches.

Captain "Gilly" Smith tied the state record in the 100 yard dash when he negotiated the stretch in 10.1 seconds. Two more Blue and White men established new records when Goltry ran the 440 in 52 and 4/5 seconds and Guarnaccia hurled the discus 121 feet 3 inches.

Except in the hurdles, the Panther took every first place in the running events, and four first places in the field events went to the Blue and White team. The javelin throwers had a bad day and the big Norwich men took all three places in this event. The Norwich men also took the firsts and seconds in the hurdles while Vermont took first and second in the broad jump.

SUMMARIES:

100 Yard Dash—Won by Smith (M); Goltry (M), second; Richmond (N), third. Time: 10.1 sec. (Ties State Record.)

The varsity and freshman cross country teams were once more under the direction of Coach Arthur M. Brown after a lapse of a year. Under his able tutelage, both teams cleaned up their state opponents and brought two more Vermont State championships to Middlebury.

Only three meets were scheduled for the varsity cross country team for the 1929 season and the Blue and White harriers succeeded in winning two out of the three. The first meet was with St. Stephen’s and was run over a difficult course at Annandale-on-Hudson. The St. Stephen’s team was no match for the Blue aggregation led by Captain Robert Dalton and Middlebury won handily by 21 to 34.

Journeying to Williamstown for the second meet, the Middlebury runners were forced to taste defeat at the hands of the strong Williams team. Williams turns out cross country teams above the average year after year and the Middlebury harriers ran very good races to keep the score as low as it was, 25 to 30.

The annual dual meet with the University of Vermont was run over the Burlington three mile course and the Middlebury team, by winning 22 to 33, succeeded in defending its conference championship. In this race Wilder of Vermont was leading Captain Dalton 300 yards from the finish line, but the Blue and White leader put on a pretty... sprint, outracing his opponent Wilder and finishing with a lead of fifteen yards, and establishing a new record of 15 minutes, 9 and $\frac{3}{5}$ seconds.

The feature of the varsity cross country season was the showing of Captain-elect Burton Perrin. This was Perrin's first season as a harrier and he placed well to the front in every meet. Harwood, a sophomore, performed well all season.

A departure was made in the freshman cross country meet this season. Instead of the usual dual meet with the University of Vermont frosh, a triangular meet was arranged to include the Norwich plebes as well as first year teams from Vermont and Middlebury. This race was held over the Vermont three mile course at Burlington and the Blue and White team won handily with a score of 29 points. Vermont ran second with 33 points and Norwich trailed with 58.

Hadley, the Vermont captain won the race, but the Middlebury leaders were bunched close behind him with Sears finishing second, McKee third and Pratt fifth.

Captain Dalton, Farnham, Woodward and Hugh McKee will be lost to the cross country squad through graduation in June, and their loss will be keenly felt. However, with Sears, J. McKee and Pratt coming up from the state championship freshman squad and with Captain-elect Perrin, Harwood and Cox back once more, the 1930 cross country team should be a worthy successor to this year's state champions.

Following in the footsteps of previous Middlebury hockey teams, the 1929-1930 Panther sextet won the championship of the Green Mountain Conference without the loss of a state game. Besides cleaning up in the state games, the Blue and White players made a great showing elsewhere, winning six out of the eight-game schedule with four games cancelled on account of inclement weather.

Princeton and Williams succeeded in winning from the flashy Middlebury team, but Captain Foote and his men can point to victories over Colgate and Hamilton to offset these losses.

The Middlebury team was again coached by a member of the regular coaching staff of the college. Panther ice teams were coached by students until last year when Roy Clogston took over the reins and produced a championship team. The success of Clogston showed the worth of having a regular coach and so Richard J. Phelan, Holy Cross 1929, who had just finished a successful season as assistant coach of the football team was signed to manage the fortunes of the sextet. Phelan proved himself as good a hockey coach as he was a football mentor and produced a team well worthy of traditions set up by previous great Middlebury hockey sextets.

The weather man was better than usual and the team had the advantage of being able to work out on the rink instead of being forced to use Porter Pond until after Christmas vacation, as has often been the case. Because of this, the team rounded into condition faster than usual and was ready to go at top speed when the schedule opened.

Norwich was the first victim and was easily taken into camp to the tune of 2 to 0. The goal tending of Fullerton kept the Panther score as low as it was, and only some remarkable stops on his part kept the margin from being higher.

The first trip was to include games with R. P. L., Princeton and St. Stephen's. The first and last were cancelled because of lack of ice. Phelan had now definitely decided on Webster to tend goal, a position which was the only one open and which had been hard to fill. Webster gave a fine exhibition of net guarding at Princeton and with the entire team playing heads up hockey, the Tiger was only able to win by the close margin of 3 to 2.

Williams was the first opponent on the next trip and won 6 to 2, showing good hockey in the last period. The game with Union was cancelled and so the team journeyed to Hamilton, New York, where Colgate was trimmed 5 to 2. This win was a big feather in the caps of Captain Foote and his team. Hamilton was conquered 2 to 1 at Clinton to close the trip.

Northfield was next invaded and Cadets succumbed for a second time. The score was higher in the return game and with team going great guns the Horsemen were beaten 3 to 0.

The St. Lawrence game scheduled for February 22, had to be cancelled due to lack of ice and games with Vermont closed the schedule. The Catamount team invaded Middlebury and was turned back 4 to 1. When the Panther journeyed to Burlington, the Vermont rooters were hopeful of a better verdict, but were treated to a fine exhibition by Middlebury instead and the Blue was victorious 6 to 0.
Although faced by extremely adverse weather all season long, the tennis team won the championship of the state. Unable to practice out of doors until late in the season, the squad was forced to work out in the gym whenever the opportunity afforded. Woodbury was the outstanding player of the team and capped his brilliant performances by winning the Vermont singles championship in a tournament held on the Middlebury courts.

In the first match of the year, the netmen met and were defeated by a strong Holy Cross team by the match score of 5-1. On the following day Boston University, whose team boasts several city and district champions, downed the Panthers in a hard fought match by the score of 4-2. Clark University, presenting the most formidable aggregation of tennis stars it has been able to muster in recent years, again repulsed the Middlebury netmen, this time, also, by the score 4-2. After defeating a strong University of Vermont team by the score of 4-2, Middlebury journeyed to St. Michaels and won 5-1.

These two state matches were followed by two defeats, at the hands of Union and R. P. I. The Middlebury aggregation, still suffering from lack of adequate practice, was clearly outclassed by these two fine Empire State teams. Returning home the Panther defeated New York State College 4-2, and dropped one to Worcester Polytech. by the same score. The second Vermont match, at Burlington, resulted in a 3-3 tie, neither team playing in top form. Returning to form from a late-season slump, the Blue and White easily downed St. Michaels a second time, to win the State Championship.
1933 Football Team

OFFICERS

Harvey W. Hessler ........................................... Coach
John F. Hartrey .................................................. Captain
Philip E. Brewer, '31 ........................................... Manager

A record of two games won, two lost and one tied, together with a dead-lock with Norwich for the State Championship, was hung up by the freshman football team during the past season. Early in October, Coach Harvey Hessler was faced with the difficult problem of welding into an efficient team a squad of some forty men of varied experience. Within two weeks, a game, hard-fighting outfit was put on the field which was to uphold the standard of previous years, and to climax the season with a smashing 27-0 victory over the University of Vermont yearlings.

The season started off with a 13-0 defeat at the hands of the Clarkson Tech frosh on Porter field, October 12. Lack of team-work by the Middlebury freshmen was the cause of the loss, although individually the team performed well. Outweighed but not outgamed by their opponents, the freshman play was featured by the work of Hartrey and Hoyle in the backfield, and Brown and MacLean in the line. Fumbles, loose tackling and a lack of cohesive team play lost many opportunities. Short forwards by the Clarkson backfield enabled the Tech frosh to score their two touchdowns.

When the Johnstown (N. Y.) High School team came on Porter Field October 19, the Blue freshman outfit looked for a hard battle. Coached by "Connie" Moynihan, captain of Middlebury's 1923 eleven which tied Harvard, the high school team was expected to put up a scrap. But the work of Coach Hessler after the Clarkson game showed its effect to advantage, and the Blue frosh ran wild to run up a 30-0 score.
Hoyle’s run-backs of punts were phenomenal, and three touchdowns were run up in this manner. Hartrey scored another touchdown on successive bucks through the line, and Suchy added another shortly after. Line play had improved considerably, with Sorensen and Ide at the ends being particularly effective. Hartrey was elected captain of the team following this game.

In the third game of the season, a strong Norwich plebe eleven, which had previously trimmed Vermont, held the Middlebury freshmen to a scoreless tie in a game played at Northfield October 26. The play throughout was close and hard fought, although the Panther cubs gained thirteen first downs to their opponents’ eight. The game was featured by marches down the field with each team advancing the ball within scoring distance, but with neither having the power to push it over. Fumbles at crucial moments cost the Blue freshmen several good chances. The work of Collins and Yeomans in the backfield was noteworthy, while the line played a steady and consistent game, showing great strength at critical times.

An uphill battle, literally speaking, was fought at Hanover, N. H., with the strong Clark School team November 2, the Middlebury freshmen losing by the tight margin of 6-0. Greatly outweighed by their opponents, and further hampered by a sodden field which slowed up their running attack, the frosh put up a game battle. The Clark School aerials worked well and were responsible for their touchdown, while the plunging of Knox, fullback, was sensational. Captain Hartrey and Hoyle were again the big guns of the frosh offense, and were held in check with difficulty. LaBounty and Lovell at tackle and center featured the line play for the freshmen.

Running up a 27-0 score against the University of Vermont freshmen, the Panther cubs wound up their season in a blaze of glory November 9 on Porter Field. From start to finish the game was a romp for Coach Hessler’s charges, and by the time the second team entered the fray in the third period, the game was sewed up. The careful and painstaking instruction given the Blue players showed particularly, as at all times the Middlebury team functioned as a unit. Hoyle scored three touchdowns on sparkling runs, behind smashing interference led by Hartrey. The fourth touchdown was made by Collins as a climax to a brilliant march down the field. Vermont’s offense never got started, and their defense was sporadic and uncertain. The 27-0 score represents the largest margin of victory a Middlebury freshman team has made against the University of Vermont in many years.

W. A. A. made itself known to the freshmen at the beginning of the year by extending an invitation to attend the Play Day sponsored at the University of Vermont November 2, 1929. There were about fifty girls who went and the University of Vermont was very enthusiastic over our response. St. Lawrence and McGill was not able to attend. The whole affair was managed efficiently by the W. A. A. of the University of Vermont, and Middlebury intends to have another Play Day in the spring and continue the spreading of Good Sportsmanship.

After a very successful season of hockey, the freshmen winning the championship, there was the customary hockey bonfire. This was the second bonfire given by the Association, and was so well attended that it will become a fixture of the College. The features of the day and evening were a hockey game as it is played in 1929 and one as it was played in 1909. The costumes that appeared on the field in the latter game were unique, and the wielding of a hockey stick with these impediments afforded amusement for the appreciative audience.

This year W. A. A. is trying to establish a set of training rules that will be kept, and which will be beneficial to the players. The basketball regulations as set forth by the Council, have proved successful and will probably be adopted as a standard. Plans are being made for an unusual Play Day that will be given for all the school children of Vermont. It is to be sponsored by the W. A. A. and will present a program of sports and games that can be carried on in secondary schools. Miss Leavens, of Rutland, has instituted the plan, and it has been met with hearty enthusiasm by the W. A. A.

The blazer award has been given to Myrtle Bachelder, '30, who filled the requirements of leadership in athletics and good sportsmanship.

Miss Young, the Director of Women's Athletics, has been given a leave of absence and the association will feel the loss of her leadership and enthusiasm.
Baseball

Is it because we need an alibi that we are ready to blame the weather man? Whatever it is spirit waned in the spring when baseball was forced indoors. Who thrills at knocking a home run when the squishy, lop-sided ball loses itself behind the footlights on the stage while one circumambulates the diamond in three or four strides.

The ruling out of many girls from this sport because of their having participated already in two majors and a minor sport, the quota for the year, cut the Senior team in half. In spite of this, three classes went down as 1929 swooped to victory. With a bang the seniors ended their athletic careers—their last championship.

A month of concentrated practice put the teams in form for a most exciting tournament season of six games apiece to decide the championship of the college. The four teams worked hard for their respective classes, but after a close and interesting series, the sophomores were returned the winners, with five victories and a tie to their credit.

A basketball banquet concluded the season. A history of women’s athletics at Middlebury was given by Miss Ross at this banquet, while moving pictures of the teams in action were shown by Miss Rosevear. Four classes are represented on the All-Midd teams for the coming year.

Volley Ball

Three weeks was all that it took. The entire season was filled with suspense and unexpected victories. Three rounds of games were played and at the end of two, each class had won and lost two games, leaving the championship as much in the air as it had been at the beginning.

The winners of the next two contests were scheduled to play for high score, so the last game found the seniors on one side of the net on tip-toe and the juniors opposite with all the spirit and fight they could muster. Games were 1-1. When the score was 13 up in the final game the lights went out. A little more light, then at 17 all, both teams were in the dark again. One hour time-out and the lighting system functioned again—so did the juniors—who smashed through to victory and their first championship. See those 1931 numerals on campus now on thirteen volley ball veterans.

Hockey

Enthusiasm and spirit produced the most sensational hockey season in many years. Competition grew as the games progressed and the victories became impartially divided. At this tense point the W. A. A. Council decided to enforce the training rules strictly. Thus, be it Fatima or Lucky, havoc was wrought among the junior squad and minor adjustments in the other classes. The class of ’33 started off with an athletic bang by winning the hockey championship.

The hockey banquet, closing the season, brought forth an exhibition game between the seniors and the freshmen and a game featuring the juniors and the sophomores in the costumes of 1898. One junior was taken out of the game for concealing the ball beneath her skirts. Thus the morale of ’98 was ruined but the amusement of the spectators increased. The cup (a measuring cup) for the best song and cheer went to the seniors, for the best costumes to the juniors and the freshmen proudly received their 1933 numerals. Eleven All-Midd letters were distributed among excellent players from all four classes. Under the management of Virginia Bland ’31, next year’s season ought to eclipse that of 1929.

The Women's "M" Club was organized in February, 1928, with the object of stimulating interest in athletics among the women, and thereby increasing the membership of the club. Upon earning an "M" sweater, a girl automatically becomes a member.

Although first organized for social purposes, the "M" Club now cooperates throughout the year with the Department of Physical Education and the W.A.A. in carrying out their programs. Miss Young is an honorary member of the club which has presented her with an "M" sweater.

Last May, eight of the club members represented the college at a Play Day, held at St. Lawrence university, in which five colleges participated.

The first Saturday in May, 1930, the "M" Club will assist the W.A.A. in entertaining representatives from the High Schools of southern Vermont at a Play Day held for the purpose of interesting the high schools in this sort of competition.
Tennis

A short, snappy tennis season was run off in the spring with a series of ladder tournaments. Nice playing was exhibited in the final match when the courts were the scene of clever volleying and smashing between Rose Marchiano '29, who won the championship, and Emiline Freeborn '29, runner-up. The fall tournaments started out with many enthusiastic entries. The enthusiasm and spirit lasted longer than the courts did under the unfavorable weather, a few final matches being held over until spring. With Hasseltine '31 and Bachelder '30 in the lead thus far, the remainder of the season portends excitement. Eleanor Kocher '30 is head of tennis for the 1930 season.

Archery

If the women archers of Middlebury were afforded a season of caribou hunting in Canada, the conservation commission would be forced to initiate new game laws. But Middlebury archers are unfortunate in having no more than a target of huge dimensions surrounding a much-perforated bulls-eye. Tournaments, communicated by telegraph, were instituted between Middlebury and many other colleges but with little response on the part of the proposed opponents. Due to the weather in the fall, the anticipated tournament at the U.V.M. Play Day was abolished, it proving too cold for aqua-archery. With Virginia Cole '31 as head of archery, the spring season promises enthusiasm and success.

Hiking Club

The Hiking Club has had what may be called an unsuccessful season so far. Due to weather conditions and busy week-ends it has been impossible to hold hikes regularly. The first hike took the members out the West Road and around the triangle. This is an interesting walk and is a good distance for an ordinary hike. The only other hike taken thus far was out to the Morgan Horse Farm, which is one of the club's favorites. During the second semester, a Club Breakfast and an overnight hike is planned. It is hoped that these will arouse enough interest so that all of the forty-five members will become active toward trying for the W. A. A. credits which the association awards. Ruth Stebbins '32 is head of hiking this year.

The Kaleidoscope is the official Junior class yearbook of Middlebury College and is issued annually in May during or shortly after Junior Week. Its executive body consists of an Editor-in-Chief, and a Business Manager, together with an Associate Editor and an Associate Manager, each chosen by their class in open election held during the second semester of their sophomore year. The remainder of the staff is selected at the discretion of the executive Board.

Middlebury's Kaleidoscope has had a long and eventful history. Since its establishment in 1874, the book has evolved from a forty-eight page review of the college year to the volume as it now exists—a three hundred page book, well documented with editorial material together with a pictorial review of an undergraduate year, with its many interests and activities. The book attempts to tell in some detail the story of Middlebury's athletic teams, her publications, organizations, and in some degree to reflect the continual advance of the administration toward a worthy place among the country's educational institutions.

In this, the thirty-fifth edition of the Kaleidoscope, we have tried to present Middlebury's student life and activities as we have seen them. Even as the editors of former books portrayed with feeling pen the interests of the Whist, Chess, Rowing and Bicycle clubs—not omitting the annual College Hunt—we have done our utmost to present the Middlebury of 1929-1930.

Fluctuations in standard and popularity have marked the career of the Kaleidoscope. Every edition was greeted with consideration, but in general, it may be said that innovations were skeptically regarded. While the class of 1931 has not undertaken to compile a radically different book, nevertheless changes in the style of presenting material have been made. These departures from a format to which Middlebury has grown accustomed may not be noticed at first glance, but may be observed by the discerning reader. In the opinion of the 1931 Board, the Kaleidoscope is an editorial competition with the class preceding. To present a well-rounded picture of a college year, and at the same time to improve, if possible, upon the labors of our predecessors was our aim. If this edition is a sign of progress toward the goal of attainable perfection, the 1931 Kaleidoscope, in our humble opinion, has proved its value.

To those members of the class of 1931, we hope this book will be a pleasant reminder in after years of these undergraduate days. To this end, the editorial and business staffs have cooperated to the fullest extent. If this book may be later read with care and appreciation and not simply scanned, we shall have had sufficient reward for our work.

The Middlebury Campus is the official undergraduate newspaper of the college. It is published every Wednesday of the school year by a board consisting of students; members of both the editorial and the business staff are chosen by competition, try-outs beginning during the candidates' freshman year.

The Campus is a six page, five column paper, and publishes complete accounts of all phases of college activity, as well as other news pertaining to the college and its alumni. It also serves as a medium for the publication of communications from readers, and includes in its pages reviews of other student publications and dramatic presentations given by college organizations; concerts and other numbers of the annual entertainment course are also reviewed, criticisms being written by various members of the faculty.

The Campus is one of the publications combining to elect a representative to the Student Council; as a rule its importance in undergraduate life, and the large voting power resulting from the size of its board, result in the election of a member of the Campus staff to the Council.

Prominence in work on the Campus board is one of the methods by which members of the men's college may qualify for election to Phi Pi Epsilon, local honorary journalistic fraternity. At the present time six members of the Campus board are included in the membership of that organization.

Representatives of both the men's and women's sections of the Campus board cooperate with Phi Pi Epsilon each year in the management of the annual "Literati Ball," formal dance of Middlebury College publications.

The Campus was founded in 1830, under the name of the Undergraduate. The first issue bears the date of October 28, 1830. Publication was continued until the spring of 1831, these early issues being devoted entirely to undergraduate literary work, and news of the United States and foreign countries, to the complete omission of all college items.

The next issue of the Undergraduate appeared in March, 1876, with William W. Gay '76, as its editor. The paper was not radically different in content from its predecessor, and was issued regularly several times each year until 1899.

The Middlebury Campus, proper, had its beginning in a quarterly magazine similar to the Undergraduate, except that it dealt more with college news, and contained fewer literary articles. The first issue appeared February, 1905, under the guidance of Prof. Charles B. Wright, and David C. Cadwell '05, with Charles Smiddy, editor. In 1913 the magazine form and content were discontinued, and in place was substituted a bi-weekly, four page, four column paper. In 1922, under the direction of D. Hadyn Parry '24, the Campus was enlarged, making the page size as it is at present. Publication once every week was also started at this time, and has continued up to the present. In the fall of 1927 an insert was added, making the paper a six page issue.
The Saxonian

Founded by the English Club in 1921-22, the Saxonian is the literary magazine of the college being named after Middlebury's own poet, John Godfrey Saxe, of the class of 1839. Its columns are open to contributions of literary merit from the student body and all the forms of writing are included in its pages.

Gradually gaining in importance, it is now a strong influence in lines of literary thought and endeavor on the campus. Not only does the magazine serve as a medium through which the student with creative ability may develop his writing capacity, but it represents the college in carrying the thought-life of the student body to the outside world. As such it is hoped that a much greater interest in the magazine will continue to strengthen its influence and further its progress. Appointment to the board is based on literary ability as shown by the publication of a Student’s contributions, or by activity in competing for a position on the business staff.

The Middlebury College Handbook, sometimes known as the Freshman "Bible," is published through the combined efforts of the Undergraduate Association and the Student Government Association. The main purpose of the book is to serve as a reliable source of information to the incoming freshmen, to whom it is sent shortly before their arrival at college.

To further its purpose, the handbook contains among other things, advice to the freshman, Rushing rules, names of persons prominent in and about the campus, Student Government Association rules, constitutions of the various organizations and other information of interest to the uninitiated.

The Freshman Handbook for the year of 1929 was published under the supervision of Frank A. Chromec '30 and Louise Drowne '30. The cover is white with the title of the book in blue letters. The book is financed by the two organizations mentioned above as well as by the advertising of the local concerns.

The Student Life Committee

The Student Life Committee is a joint student-faculty committee having under its guidance the social policies of the College. It is composed of the President of the Undergraduate Association, and the Dean of the Men’s College, the President of the Student Government Association, and the Dean of the Women’s College, and a member of the faculty appointed by the President of the College.

The schedules of all non-athletic organizations are submitted to it for approval, its function toward such being similar to that of the Athletic Council in athletic matters. It discusses and disposes of all questions concerning the social life of the campus, having supervisory control of all social activities. Because of the character of its membership, free discussion of all such matters is possible, both the student and faculty points of view being available. It has had its present form for three years and during that time every action taken has been unanimous.

The Student Council

The reorganization of the Undergraduate Association also resulted in a change in its executive body, the Student Council. Instead of the membership being directly elected by the undergraduate body, the new system calls for, as members, the president of the Undergraduate Association who acts as chairman, the presidents of the four classes, the presidents of the three honorary societies, the president of the Varsity Club and one representative of student publications. This brings together a body of men from the different walks of collegiate life, more qualified to perform the primary duty of the Student Council, that of promoting better relations between the student body and the administration.

During the past year, the Student Council has done much in seeing that the freshmen were properly instructed and started on the path to becoming good upperclassmen. In this capacity they organized the frosh P-Rade during the fall. Their activities, however, are mostly communicated through their spokesman, the President of the Undergraduate Association and their power is felt through his action rather than that of the body itself.

The Undergraduate Association

The movement for the reorganization of the Undergraduate Association resulted in the drawing up of a new constitution in the last two months of the semester ending in June, 1929. Many of the weak points of the old constitution were corrected in the new, and experience this year has proved its worth.

The following are salient points in the reorganization, constituting radical departures from the old. Instead of meetings being held every two weeks, meetings are now called at the discretion of the President, the Student Council, or by a petition of two-fifths of the members of the Undergraduate Association. The dues under the new constitution are collected with the college bills, avoiding the difficulty which occurred in years past. The most radical change in the constitution was the election of the president. Nomination is in the hands of a group of Seniors, one representative from each of the fraternities and the neutral body. Other nominations can be made upon petition of twenty-five per cent of the members. Election is then held by the Undergraduate Association as a whole. Other officers are elected by the Student Council.

Student Government Association

The women of Middlebury have made their own rules by which they are governed, under the Student Government Association. Members of the Student Government council are chosen by the students, one from each class, two representatives from the house chairmen, and the officers of the organization. The council enforces the rules and has power to punish any infractions.

The Association serves in a social capacity, when it gives a tea to the members of each of the four classes, and also plans to have a speaker after each of the monthly meetings.

Student Government is not merely a local organization; many colleges have similar governing systems. Representatives from each college meet every year to talk over the problems which arise in their respective institutions. This fall the conference was at Colby College in Maine. Our president attended and brought back many new ideas.

As a reward for faithful and outstanding service in extracurricular service to Middlebury College, there exists the Senior self-perpetuating honorary society, Waubanakee.

Election to membership in the organization comes shortly before Junior Week, the pledging taking place prior to the opening event of the Week. The ceremony is known as the tapping of the Waubanakees. Contrary to the practices of the other two honorary societies, no conditions except those mentioned are prerequisites to membership.

The organization plays its important part by combining the functions of the honorary societies of the other classes and so its influence spreads and is felt throughout undergraduate life. The emblem of the society is a gold tomahawk and members may be recognized by their soft black hats with a red tomahawk embroidered on the front.

The junior honorary society of the men's college is known as the "Sage" society. The selection of its members, a Sophomore from each fraternity and the neutral body, occurs usually about the middle of the second semester.

Conceived, as were the other honorary societies, with the intention of having an honorary society in each class, this self-perpetuating organization was founded in 1910 for the purpose of creating better interfraternity feeling.

In furthering its purpose, the society fosters interfraternity sports by the award of a suitable trophy to that fraternity compiling the greatest number of points in this field during the year. These sports are supervised by the Physical Education department of the College with the cooperation of the "Sages."

Delta Tau

Delta Tau is the self-perpetuating, Sophomore honorary society of the men's college founded in 1910. Elections to the society are held the second semester of the year when two freshmen from each fraternity and the neutral body are elected to the organization.

Delta Tau occupies a unique niche in college affairs with what might be called its two-fold purpose. In meeting visiting teams, policing grounds during athletic contests, and selling programs, the organization impresses those who come into contact with Middlebury life.

In exercising control over the freshmen by seeing that college songs, cheers, and rules are learned, the society fosters college spirit together with respect for and support of the traditions of Middlebury College.

The Banshee Chapter of Mortar Board, National Senior Women's Honorary Society, was installed in Middlebury on May 27, 1928. Banshee, the old local society, was founded in Middlebury in 1912. Its members were not to exceed twelve and were to be selected as those women "most popular and most representative of Middlebury."

The purpose of Mortar Board, as stated in the preamble of the constitution, is "to provide for cooperation between women's Senior honorary societies, to promote college loyalty, and to stimulate and develop a finer type of college woman." Service, scholarship, and leadership are the objectives of the organization, and it is upon these qualifications that members of Mortar Board are chosen.

The service program for this year includes work in vocational guidance, such as the procuring of speakers who may give helpful information regarding certain vocations, work in the establishment and revival of Middlebury traditions, and an effort to bring closer relationship with the faculty.

The English Club

The idea of an English Club was first conceived by the Professors Cady, Davison, and Skillings in 1920. The next year the club was organized and consisted of twenty members. At the present time, members are chosen on application from the three upper classes and are considered as to their attainments in the English department, work done on the publications of the college, in the debating and dramatic clubs, and as to probable interest and willingness to work, as shown by their attitude toward other college activities.

It is the endeavor of the club to stimulate a greater interest in literature and art, and to support other activities of the college in the same field.

El Club Español de Middlebury se compose de todos los estudiantes que siguen cursos de español o que han seguido cursos y tienen interés in conservar su conocimiento del idioma. El fin del club es conseguir mayor facilidad en hablar y entender la lengua.

Desde el principio del año escolar de 1929-30 los socios han aprendido a bailar el tango, a jugar a Bridge en español, y a cantar varias canciones españolas. Han oído excelentes conferencias en español incluyendo una por el doctor Concha sobre "Los Incas," y una por la señorita Murúa sobre "Sevilla."

Sigma Delta Pi, sociedad hispanica honraria, se fundó 1919 en la Universidad de California. Tiene como fin el unir a los estudiantes y amantes de español que han logrado cierto grado de perfección en la bella lengua cervantina.

Hay unos veinte capítulos en los Estados Unidos incluyendo el capítulo Mu de Middlebury. La señorita Rose Martin es la presidenta del capítulo aquí; el doctor Concha es miembro honrario y los siguientes estudiantes han tenido calificaciones suficientes para conseguir entrada; Dorothea Higgins '30, Bernice Sargent '30, and Warren Jacobs '30.

Entre los miembros honrarios ilustres contamos con Concha Espina, famoulia novelista española.

Der deutsche Verein verfolgt den Zweck, die Bekanntschaft mit der deutschen Sprache und Literatur und die Pflege deutscher Kulturwerte zu fördern.

Diesen Zweck sucht der Verein durch geselliges Beisammensein der Mitglieder zu erreichen. Versammlungen werden monatlich veranstaltet, wo man Übung im mündlichen Gebrauch der Sprache, gemeinsames Singen deutscher Lieder, musikalische und literarische Vorträge, Gesellschaftsspiele, und die Aufführung deutscher Dramen pflegt.

Insbesondere gipfeln die Bestrebungen des Vereins in der Weihnachtsfeier, die kurz vor Weihnachten in jedem Jahre stattfindet. Dabei besteht, man, die deutsche Weihnachtsstimmung und Freude hervorzurufen. Die erste Stufe der Weihnachtsfeier geht stets am letzten Sonnabend vor den Weihnachtsferien in aller Frühe vor sich, indem ein Studentenschor einen Rundgang an viele Professoren macht und Weihnachtslieder vor deren Wohnung en vorsingt. Auf der Dezemberveranstaltung erfolgt dann als Hauptprogram die Aufführung eines deutschen Weihnachtsprologes.
The Alchemists

The Alchemists was originally organized in the fall of 1912 with seven members who represented the seven metals Au, Ag, Pb, Hg, Sn, Cu, and Fe, known to the ancient alchemists. It functioned with varying interest until the fall of 1927 when it was reorganized with a new constitution and given new life by a group of students who changed the requirements of admission to include those who made their major work in this department.

Since its reorganization, considerable interest has been shown in that lectures, motion pictures, and demonstrations have been arranged for the furthering of the students' knowledge of the subject.

The purpose of the club is to further interest in chemical work as well as to provide entertainment at their social meetings. The Alchemists also encourage scholarship in the department by offering a yearly reward to the member obtaining the highest scholastic standing in the department.

Young Women’s Christian Association

The Young Women’s Christian Organization endeavors through its weekly meetings to enlarge the intellectual, as well as the spiritual life, of its members. Various chapel speakers address the group on Sunday evenings, while there are midweek discussions on practically every problem that college life, or society in general, presents.

Besides these meetings Y. W. functions socially. A Christmas Bazaar is an annual feature, as well as teas and bridges at various times during the year. In the early fall a reception is held for the freshmen. This, together with the “Big Sister” arrangement aids the freshmen in becoming oriented to campus life.

A new feature of the organization is a World Fellowship supper held in March, at which food, characteristic of many countries, was served by girls dressed in the native costumes of these nations. The World Fellowship group has as its aim a broadening of the scope of its members by keeping in touch with Y. W. activities.

Connected with the Y. W. C. A. is the Maqua Club composed of those girls who have been to Camp Maqua in Poland Springs, Maine.

Women's Debating

OFFICERS

Helen M. Perry, '30 ................................................. President
Muriel J. Johnson, '30 ............................................ Vice-President and Manager
Winifred H. Webster, '32 ................................. Secretary-Treasurer

Due to the efforts of the manager, Muriel Johnson '30, women's debating has been able to present an interesting program of debates at home and away. The organization of the work is as follows:

All women interested in debating participate in the women's Debating club, the only requirements being interest in the work and study of the questions included in the program. Meetings of the club are held every two weeks, and for every meeting the officers plan some definite work in the form of assignments made upon topics of interest. Sometimes there are informal debates, sometimes special reports and short speeches, sometimes talks by faculty members of the Debating Council.

By means of these regular meetings, the club is a background for the varsity debates. Try-outs are held some time in advance of each debate, and the team is selected from the members who present the material most convincingly. The aim is democratic, so that as many girls as possible may receive the training involved in participation in inter-collegiate debates.

Public debates have been held with St. Lawrence University, University of Vermont, Keene Normal School, New Hampshire University, Boston University and two contests with the men's team, resulting in six victories for the Middlebury women. Among the most popular subjects for the debates were—Resolved, that the emergence of woman from the home is a deplorable feature in modern life; and Resolved, that co-education is a failure.
Varsity "M" Club

The varsity "M" club was organized in 1926 and as its name indicates, is composed of those undergraduates who have won their varsity letters in one of the major sports: football, basketball, baseball or track. Alumni members are included as well.

The purpose of the organization is to promote a fraternal feeling between the athletes. To this end they hold regular monthly meetings. Under the direction of the "M" club comes the giving of major letters and sweaters. After the Athletic Council has awarded the letters, the "M" Club sees that the men are suitably rewarded.

The funds for the sweaters are obtained by holding a series of informal dances in the gym on successive Saturday nights from the time college opens until shortly after Christmas vacation. The dances during the fall of 1929 were especially well attended.

One of the important factors in college relationships of the present day is the influence of the Intercollegiate Glee club association. According to statistics, Glee club work interests more direct participants under more fraternal circumstances than any other single extra-curriculum activity. The fifteen sectional contests held annually throughout the country enlist the services of over eight thousand students and the National Championship contest held at Carnegie Hall, New York City, brings together students from Florida and Vermont, from New York and California, and from Texas and Wisconsin.

The Middlebury Glee club has been a member of the Inter-collegiate Association for five years. In that space of time, Middlebury has secured third place in a National Contest and has been awarded one first place and two honorable mentions in the New England sectional contest. Only one eastern Glee club has surpassed this record—the Wesleyan Glee club, twice a national champion. No other activity at Middlebury has attained the official rank in its particular field that the Glee club has won at Intercollegiate contests, in which such colleges as Princeton, Yale, and Dartmouth are active competitors.

The growth of the radio field has enormously increased the potentialities of the Glee Club for college advertising. The Middlebury club has been on the air over WEAF, WJZ, WOR, and WNAC, and sang over WGY, WTIC, and WEAF this spring. Letters commending the club on its radio concerts have come from states as widely separated as Arizona and Virginia.

The Black Panther Serenaders were fortunate in securing, during the summer of 1929, a position aboard the S. S. President Harding, of the United States Lines. Their contract called for two trips, and on the first voyage the members of the orchestra had three days leave when the boat docked at Bremen.

The second trip, even better luck was with them for they received a week's leave and visited many interesting points in Germany. The Black Panthers played for the tourist cabin and in the evening on the deck, weather permitting.

The quality of their music was well received. During the trips to Europe they had the pleasure of meeting the "Bremen" on her maiden voyage and watching the Graf Zeppelin as it passed overhead.

The personnel of the orchestra was changed as they came back to school due to the loss of a few members by graduation. At the present time the orchestra comprises the following men:

The Middlebury College Band

Since its reorganization in 1925, the band has been steadily improving and under the capable leadership of Mr. Joseph F. Lechnyr, of Burlington, it made a decided hit on Middlebury Night, the first formal get-together of the men's college this year.

Football games, football rallies, and band playing seem to go hand in hand in the collegiate realm, and the Middlebury College Band, with its blue coated members, gave whole-hearted support to our team at every possible turn. The band, thirty-two members strong, followed the team to Springfield and just a month later the strains of "Victory" were heard on the campus of our "Brothers by the Lake" at Burlington.

The band plays for home basketball and baseball games and brings the season to a close with a concert on the campus during Commencement week and by leading the Commencement procession.

A Tempo Club

The A Tempo Club was organized in 1929 for the purpose of bringing together girls who are actively interested in music. The principal aim of the club is to furnish to its members equal opportunities to perform, direct, and criticize, at all times stressing a program of individual, as well as cooperative, activity.

The program of each meeting is planned and superintended by individual members in turn, and the program is carried out cooperatively. These programs of activity include study and practice in musical fields in which members may find teaching opportunities, and cover intensive consideration of such topics as instrumentation, and the organization of an orchestra; the organization of a high school orchestra, and the problems of conducting the organization and conducting of Glee clubs; assembly singing; music memory contests; radio work; problems of piano accompaniment; modern musicians, and what they are doing; and musical activities in modern high schools.

The Club hopes, by serious consideration of the field ahead, to gain an outlook on the possibilities of furthering work in music beyond college interests, and also to foster and increase musical interests on campus. Membership is limited to the two upper classes, and election is based upon musical activity and interest.

The Dramatic department of Middlebury College may be divided as a whole into three major divisions, play production classes, Wig and Pen, and business administration. The Drama department as a whole also has its connection with other departments of the college, since its courses are accepted as courses in the English department, and as it often calls upon members of other departments to help in its administration.

The play production classes comprise the most important part of the department. Besides being conducted as regular classes, the students are required to do a considerable amount of laboratory work. This consists of building sets, directing lighting, designing costumes, directing productions and in general performing all those duties which give valuable training. The sets used in most of the plays are the results of such work.

The Wig and Pen is the honorary society established to recognize work done in the dramatic line. Membership is drawn from the Dramatic club at large, prerequisite for membership being outstanding work in the interests of college dramas. The organization maintains a separate existence from the rest of the department, holding its meetings at stated intervals. The purpose of these meetings is to further interest in the field of dramas by the reading of various plays and the discussion of contemporary tendencies in drama. On occasions, the meetings are purely social. Members usually are engaged in the production of plays and in this manner exercise a certain influence over the rest of the department.

The other division of the Dramatic department is the administrative division. The control of the department is of course settled in the Director of the Playhouse. Aiding in financial administration are members of the College business staff, who tend to the receipts from the sale of tickets and all expenses. Important in this division is the house manager who has many and important duties. He sees to the printing of programs, the arrangement of seating capacities, and the general welfare of the house as a whole. He is under the direction of the Director of the Playhouse. An executive committee also works to settle questions of importance. This committee is composed of members of the faculty, four students from the campus at large, two from play production classes and two from the Wig and Pen. This committee decides on the plays to be presented, the number of plays and like problems.

Thus the Dramatic Department is exceedingly well organized, thanks to the excellent work of Professor Goodreds and those students who cooperated with him in its establishment.

DRAMATICS

Several important changes have taken place in the drama department during the past year. The first thing that is noticeable is the renovation of the Playhouse from a cold, barren place to a comfortable theatre by the addition of new chairs, new parchment shades, new transoms for better ventilation, and tapestries on the walls. Not so noticeable at once, but more important, is the change in the character of the plays. Herebefore it has been the custom to produce five three-act plays, by each of the classes and by the Wig and Pen. The class distinction has been done away with except in the case of the Junior play so that the productions are more representative of the work of the department. Another feature is the two night presentation of one-act plays to better accommodate the growing attendance at such performances.

Noticeable in the fall of 1929 was the length of time between presentations of the one-act plays, but at the same time their improved character when presented. Between the opening of college and the end of the first semester two sets of one-act plays were presented. The first presentation included Eugene O'Neill's "In the Zone" and Alfred Sutro's "The Man in the Stalls." These were given November 2 and 5. The second series of one-act plays were given on the nights of November 28 and 29. At this time, the offerings were Lord Dunsany's "The Glittering Gate" and James M. Barrie's "Shall We Join the Ladies?" These two presentations of one-act plays are the best that the Middlebury Dramatic department has produced in many seasons, and showed a material improvement in acting and setting.

The first three-act play of the year was presented the evenings of January 30 and 31. This play was "The Queens Husband," by Robert Sherwood. The story concerns a mythical kingdom where the ruler is overshadowed by an overbearing queen and an equally dominating premier. The plot shows the means by which the king, who is incidentally a checker player of no mean ability, brings events to his own ends in his own subtle way.

The cast was as follows: Frederick Granton, the King's secretary, Kingsley R. Smith '33; Phipps, the footman, F. Ryeburn Lynch '29; Lord Birten, the foreign minister, Carl D. Howard '30; Princess Anne, Mary E. Hough '31; Queen Martha, Marion G. Cruikshank '30; First Lady-in-Waiting, Prudence B. Ingham '31; Second Lady-in-Waiting, Marie J. Ernst '33; General Northrup, the Prime Minister, Alan R. Branch '32; King Eric VIII, Laurence H. Wilson '30; Major Blent, Aide-de-Camp, Denison F. Groves '33; Dr. Fellman a liberal, Lawrence L. Haskins '31; Prince William of Greck, Giles N. Montgomery '33; and Laker, an anarchist, Arthur L. Pierce '30.

During the fall, the Dramatic Department under the direction of Professor Goodreds, in connection with the Dramatic Departments of other New England Colleges brought forth the first regular meeting of the Dramatic Directors Association of New England Colleges in Providence, Rhode Island. Professor Goodreds attended and was elected to the committee for drawing up a constitution and an outline of the association's activities for the year. This association works for the advancement of dramatic work in New England colleges.
Men’s Debating

Prof. Carlus H. Griffin .................................................. Coach
Rearner Kline, ‘32 .................................................. Manager

This year the men’s debating team embarked upon the most extensive schedule ever attempted by a Middlebury forensic group. The beginning of the college year found contests booked with Victoria University College of Wellington, New Zealand, B. U., N. Y. U., Rutgers, and the three state opponents, and seven other institutions.

Professor Griffin assumed the coaching position, thus giving the team faculty supervision after a lapse of two years. Several new policies were inaugurated. The method of choosing teams was thoroughly revised, with provision being made for separate try-outs for each contest at home, and for every trip. A freshman team was also among the innovations. The year saw the first forensic competition with the women’s teams, one contest being held before the local Grange, and one before the college audience. A new system of audience decision, worked out by the manager, was inaugurated with success.

The outstanding event of the forensic year was the contest December 3 with Victoria University, the first international debate ever held in Middlebury. The New Zealanders, on an international tour, had an unusually impressive team, and won the decision of the single judge, Mr. Justice George MacClelland Powers, of the Vermont Supreme Court. Sanzo, ‘31, Hazen, ‘31, Taylor, ‘32 and Kline, ‘32 debated for Middlebury.

This same team represented Middlebury on a trip to Boston, on which Keene Normal School, of Keene, New Hampshire, was defeated by unanimous decision December 18. The following evening Boston University was a three to nothing victor over Middlebury. In these three debates the question was the emergence of women from the home, Middlebury upholding the negative against Victoria, and the affirmative on the trip.

Other opponents of the year included Tufts, New Hampshire, and Norwich at home and Albany Law School, Upsala, St. Lawrence, Vermont, and St. Michael’s, away. The freshmen debated the Keene Normal School freshmen at Keene.
The 1931 Junior Week

The holiday season, set aside every year for Junior Week, begins Thursday, May 8, with the traditional tapping of Waubanakee papooses at Porter Field, preliminary to the baseball game with Middlebury's ancient rival, Vermont. In the evening, the Varsity "M" Club will present a minstrel show, an innovation this year, at the gymnasium.

Interfraternity Stunts, with their hilarious "take-offs" of Middlebury's undergraduate life, are to be presented Friday morning. A track meet with Colby and a tennis match with Vermont will take place in the afternoon. Middlebury Movies of scenes and events about college will be shown after the contests. Junior Prom, event of events, is to be held at the Inn, and the Original White Cotton Pickers of Cleveland, Ohio, celebrated dance orchestra, have been engaged to provide the music.

Breakfasts at fraternity houses open the events for Saturday, followed by the annual Soph-Frosh rope-pull. A baseball game with Norwich and a tennis match with St. Michaels are the athletic features for the afternoon. Junior Tea will take place following the contests. Junior Play, outstanding dramatic production of the year, is to be produced at the Playhouse in the evening.

One of the most important innovations will be a pageant, presented by the members of Mortar Board Sunday afternoon. It will be of an historical nature, portraying many of the important incidents in Middlebury College's growth and development. The intersorority sing will bring Junior Week to a close.

The 1929 Senior Week

Senior Week brought to a pleasant and successful close four years of undergraduate life at Middlebury to the class of 1929. Under the direction of Raymond J. Saulnier and Emeline Amidon, chairman and vice-chairman respectively, a four day program was arranged for class members, alumni, faculty and guests, concluding June 17 with Commencement.

Class Day exercises were held on lower campus the morning of June 15. The entire class, robed in the sombre garb of graduation, occupied specially constructed seats while their elected representatives offered a varied and interesting program. Carl G. Sorensen, president of the class, gave the opening address of welcome to the assembled class and their guests and paid fitting tribute to Middlebury. Raymond J. Saulnier, class orator, spoke on the relations of college and public. Raymond Bosworth and Lara Wheaton presented the Class Prophecy, followed by Frank DeWitt who gave the Class Will. To complete the exercises, the Class Poem, Essay, Will and Tree Dedication were given. One of Middlebury’s oldest traditions, the Senior Pipe Smoke, was then held to conclude the morning’s events.

President Moody, in his Baccalaureate sermon delivered Sunday morning, took as his text: ‘One thing have I asked of Jehovah, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the House of Jehovah all the days of my life.’ Intellectual appreciation of values, curiosity of knowledge and a reverence toward things spiritual formed the thesis of his address.

Dr. James Y. Simpson of the University of Edinburgh concluded the week at the Congregational Church, with the Commencement address, the subject of which was Reality and its significance.

The Senior Class, led by the Junior Marshals, Alice M. Guest and Richard J. Humeston, and escorted by junior girls, bearing a daisy chain, marched to the grandstand on lower campus where the exercises took place. After the Tree Dedication, President Moody announced the following honors: Valedictory, Ellsworth Newcombe Lawrence and Gladys Helen Boyden; Salutatory, William Earl Davis, and Muriel Jane Harris. Gladys H. Boyden, Mary E. Burtis, Muriel J. Harris, Evelyn R. Jones, and Helen R. Walter received their degrees magna cum laude, while six men and eighteen women were granted cum laude honors.

Senior Ball

The Class of 1929 brought its social season to a close with the Senior Ball. Ernie Andrews’ orchestra furnished music for the occasion, at which were mingled both pleasure, and sorrow for the approaching time of departure from college.

The patrons and patronesses were: President and Mrs. Paul D. Moody, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Wiley, Dean Eleanor S. Ross, and Dean Burt L. Hazeltine.

Commencement Plays

"THE VALIANT"
BY HOLWORTHY HALL

"The Valiant," a serious and tragic one-act play, was presented first on both evenings of the Commencement dramatic program. Helena Dundas, playing the part of the sister, brought out most effectively the realism of her role. Bosworth, as Dyke, handled his part with a forcefulness which gripped the audience throughout the play. The rest of the cast revealed a thorough understanding of their parts, and helped to create, most effectively, the desired atmosphere.

THE CAST

The set was designed by Edward Denio, '29 and executed by Leonard Riccio, '29.

"THE MAN WHO MARRIED A DUMB WIFE"
BY ANATOLE FRANCE

The second play, "The Man Who Married A Dumb Wife," was successful, not only from the point of view of the acting, but also because of the clever set, beautiful costumes, and the exceptional musical accompaniment. The leading parts, taken by Miss Lackie and Mr. Lynch, were well portrayed, while the rest of the cast gave evidence of much dramatic ability.

Soph Hop

The first formal of the college social season, the annual Soph Hop, was held at Middlebury Inn Thanksgiving Eve, November 27. The decorations of pumpkins, and corn stalks which were massed against the pillars, made a colorful background for the holiday festivities. Sixty couples enjoyed the dance music furnished by the Williams Purple Knights, an orchestra of repute. The programs were of maroon suede upon which were superimposed the numerals '32 in white, thus carrying out the color scheme of the class.

The chaperons were: President and Mrs. Paul D. Moody and their daughter Margaret, Dean Burt A. Hazeltine, Miss Mary S. Rosevear, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Wiley, Professor H. G. Owen and Mrs. Maude O. Mason.

The committee was composed of James Olson, chairman; William Cody, Myron Embler, Lynn Callin, Robert Burrowes, Frederick Weaver, Howard Smith, William Horr, Clyde Seaman, Emil Raeder, Martha Kingman, Ada Haley, Dorothy Cressy, Althea Blakeslee, Ruth Moody, Rachael Farrar and Louise Brayton.

Literati Ball

Seventy-five couples attended the second annual Literati Ball held January 18, at the Middlebury Inn, and presented under the auspices of Phi Pi Epsilon. The Black Panther Serenaders furnished the music, and novelties of confetti were given out. The feature of the evening was an elimination dance between "publications" specified on the programs.

In the receiving line were President and Mrs. Paul D. Moody, Professor and Mrs. Raymond H. White, Mrs. Maude O. Mason, Miss Ruth Hatch '32, and Mr. Frank Chromec '30.

The committee consisted of Frank Chromec '30, chairman; Walter S. Keen '30, Elbert H. Henry '30, Sanford Witherell '30, Dorothea Higgins '30, and Catherine Pickard '30.
Scullions’ Ball

The eighth annual Scullions Ball was held at Hepburn Social Hall on the afternoon and evening of February 8, thirty-five couples being present. This year the ball was a closed dance, so that only Hepburn waiters were eligible for admission. The Valentine decorations and favors proved an attractive feature of the evening’s program. Dance music was furnished by the Black Panther Serenaders, before and after a dinner served in the Hepburn Commons.

The ball was chaperoned by President and Mrs. Paul D. Moody, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Wiley, Mrs. Maude O. Mason, Miss Mary Bowles, and Miss Mary Dutton, and the committee consisted of Elbert H. Henry ’30, chairman, Frank A. Chromec ’30, William P. Green ’31, Samuel L. Abbott Jr. ’31, Charles E. Thrasher ’32 and Arthur G. Ide ’33.

Frosh Frolic

The Frosh Frolic of the class of 1933 was held at Middlebury Inn February 15. This year the dance was a semi-formal affair. The decorations attractively carried out the class color scheme of orange and blue, while the usual novelties of confetti and streamers added to the evening’s merriment. Music was provided by the Black Panther Serenaders.

The chaperones of the evening were President and Mrs. Paul D. Moody, Dean Eleanor S. Ross, Dean Burt A. Hazeltine, Miss Rose E. Martin and Mr. Harvey Hessler. The dance committee consisted of H. Alan Painter, chairman, Arthur L. Amelung, Denison F. Groves, David O. Collins, William W. McDonough, Milton J. Wooding, Rollin E. Pratt, Ralph N. Huse, John N. McKee, John F. Hartrey, Elly Delfs, Dorothy V. Lawrence, Olga E. Fluck, Dorothy G. Burgess, Virginia C. Whittier, Ruth H. McMenemy, and Carol H. McNeely.
Acknowledgments

The 1931 Kaleidoscope Board wishes to express its appreciation to the following companies and individuals for making possible this edition of the Middlebury yearbook: to The Vermont Printing Company of Brattleboro for their cordial assistance and advice in the printing; to the Canton Engraving and Electrotype Company of Canton, Ohio, for their cooperation and service in the engraving; and to the North American Press of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, for the manufacture of the cover.

The Board is grateful to Miss Laila McNeil, college librarian, for giving members of our staff access to files, photographs and other material essential to the preparation of the book; to Mr. Edgar J. Wiley, Director of Admissions and Personnel, for his permission to use various electrotypes; and to Mr. John Rulison of the freshman class, for his art work.
Advertisements

Realizing that the following advertisers have shown their interest in Middlebury and the class of 1931 through advertising in these pages, the Kaleidoscope wishes to say that their assistance is sincerely appreciated, and recommends to the college and the class that patronage be given them.

Griff: My wife has the worst memory in the world.
Biff: Forgets everything?
Griff: Shux, no! She remembers everything.

Him: Your friend certainly is a Scotchman.
It: Hozzat?
Him: I gave him a rabbit's foot for luck and he took it home and cooked it.

Irving: You seem to have no interest for me.
Jeanne: No wonder—you've never invested any money on me.

Prof. Swett: Haskins, what is one of the uses of cow-hide?
Haskins: To hold the cow together, sir.

Judge: Why did your wife hit you with a flat-iron?
Charlie Shaw: Because our neighbor had borrowed the rolling pin.

Prof: Which would you rather be, a Senator or a Coastguard?
Stude: A Coastguard.
Prof: But don't you realize that a Senator makes the laws of our nation. He is the representative of our people who gives his best interests to——
Stude: Yeah, I know—but a Coastguard doesn't have to buy his liquor.

Speaking of insects—how's your aunt?
The biggest and best loaf of thoroughly good bread is one made from Wise King Flour.

WISE KING FLOUR

is not like other kinds; it is a spring wheat flour made by the most skilled millers in the country.

It must necessarily be a perfect flour. You will have better and whiter bread if you use it. Wise housekeepers use Wise King Flour. Your grocer sells it.

Good for “extra innings”

Like a good pitcher, a good valve should have the stamina to go the whole route.

Jenkins Valves not only have this quality, but they have the additional reserve strength for “extra inning” performance. Jenkins are cast only of the finest valve metals. They are accurately machined and threaded, carefully assembled and subjected to wide safety tests at the Jenkins factory.

That is why Jenkins Valves stand up in any service, in plumbing, heating, power plant or fire protection piping.

This compound is not all coffee, but contains about seven-eighths coffee, of the finest grades, blended with vegetable substances which have been found to render it more healthful than pure coffee, in that it does not produce nervousness or wakefulness.
